No Publication Till April

Jackie Won't Push Stop-Book Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and publishers Harper and Row announced Tuesday night the former first lady has decided not to press her motion for a temporary injunction to prevent publication of the book The Death of a President.

The statement said Harper and Row still intend to publish the book, but have agreed not to do so until April 1 although no court order has been obtained forbidding prior publication.

AUTHOR ILL

It added that, if no agreement is reached in advance, both parties have agreed to request a trial of the issue in mid-January.

The statement was issued shortly after it was learned that Harper and Row had demanded — and got — a court hearing on the case Thursday.

Mrs. Kennedy's separate action against the book's author, William Manchester, was put off until Jan. 16 because he is ill with pneumonia.

The joint statement said representatives of both parties have been making steady progress toward an amicable settlement.

"The unfortunate illness of the author has made it necessary to continue these discussions over a longer period than was anticipated."

"Both parties have agreed to continue consultations with Mr. Manchester and his representatives, as well as negotiations among themselves, for the adjustment of outstanding differences."

"Despite the author's illness, sufficient progress has been made so that Mrs. Kennedy has decided not to press her motion for a temporary injunction."

GIVE AND TAKE

A spokesman for Senator Robert F. Kennedy (Dem.-N.Y.) said the point of the agreement is to avoid the court hearing Thursday.

He said it showed "give and take on both sides."

A source close to the Kennedy said: "I think they're close to an agreement."

Mrs. Kennedy was vacationing on the Caribbean island of Antigua and was not available for further comment.

Follow Through In the Sun

Victoria put on its fiery Monday — and bathed it all in brilliant sunshine — for the annual Christmas Tree golf tournament of The Daily Colonist. Day was summed up by William John photograph of oak trees and golfer Bob Peters. Details and pictures are on Pages 15 and 16.

Pay packets in many B.C. industries, particularly construction, will be slimmer in 1967. Provincial government regulations restricting overtime go into effect next weekend.

Assistant deputy minister of labor Clifford Margison confirmed Tuesday that notices had been posted at a number of jobs in the province, setting out hours of work.

The regulations outlined in September by Premier Bennett restrict work time to 44 hours a week.

Chinese Purge to Sweep Economy

Great Leap to Civil War?

By ROBERT ELEGANT
HONG KONG (LAT) — Previous restraints on the scope and violence of China's great purge were ordered removed Tuesday — and nearly total turmoil was proclaimed.

The Chinese economy, previously out of bounds to the struggle, is to become a major battlefield. The ramifications of this new provocation are so sweeping it is almost certain to result in widespread violence among working men, and could well be the forerunner of open civil war. (See Page 37.)

China's mines and factories, hitherto virtually exempt from the sweeping purges, now are to be swept by "serious struggle." The Red Guards, who had been instructed not to interfere with labor, now will invade factories.

The Peking People's Daily, the organ of the central committee of the Communist party and the platform of Defence Minister Lin Biao's extremist group, proclaimed factories and mines would now be besieged by the "revolutionary students" of the Red Guard and their management would be totally reorganized.

After Big 1966

B.C. Economy Nears Plateau

By JACK FEY
Legislative Reporter

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark anticipates a slowdown next year in B.C.'s mushrooming economic boom which began in 1961.

His prediction that the edge will be worn off the boom was contained in an 88-page summary of 1966 economic activity released today. (See also Page 39.)

The report stated that the 1967 "over-all rate of increase might be of a lower order than that experienced this year."

KEPT ALIVE

The boom which "has prevailed without abatement since 1961" was kept alive another year largely through the efforts of the provincial government.

Setbacks to the provincial economy were brought about by tight money conditions which restricted new housing starts here and in the United States and forced setback in production of lumber, shingles and plywood.

But overseas markets were still buoyant for many of B.C.'s export commodities, and the government played a major role in bringing about an expanded productive capacity and a record-breaking level of capital investment.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

The net result was that "most of the major indicators of economic activity in 1966 experienced substantial gains over the record levels achieved last year."

Average weekly wages rose by 7.7 per cent but this gain was moderated by price increases averaging 3.7 per cent during

No Rejoicing For Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Yves Gabias, Quebec provincial secretary, said Tuesday night the province will not rejoice over the 100th anniversary of Confederation but nevertheless has no intention to boycott celebrations planned for ushering in the 1967 centennial year.

Mr. Gabias said: "There is no room for rejoicing about Confederation's 100th anniversary but we plan to participate in all programs that allow us, as Quebecers, to display ourselves."

"It is not a question of participating in the parading of bells and torches. Quebec will not participate in the rejoicing."

"We do not plan to boycott the feasts and rejoicings which will take place on the occasion of the start of the centennial year."

Mr. Gabias said Quebec will take part in such centennial programs as those involving artistic performances and sports.

Such events he included among those which "will allow Quebecers to show themselves as Quebecers."

Unavailable for further comment was Simon-Pierre Rainville, centennial director in the provincial secretary's office.

Friday, Mr. Rainville said: "French-Canadians will mark the centenary by participating in all the programs, but whether it is New Year's Day or July 1 the province does not wish to rejoice."

hydro projects are included in the restrictions.

Any employers who face emergency situations will have to apply to the Board of Industrial Relations for special permits to exceed the 44-hour work week.

The Hours of Work Act does include provisions for special emergency repairs to machinery or other situations which require immediate attention.

Almost all permits issued to such major industries as mining, manufacturing, construction and transportation are due to expire at the end of this week.

No permits will be issued for overtime work in the future unless a definite emergency situation arises.

The extra work ban was placed on B.C. industries by Premier Bennett in an effort to stem the rising tide of unemployment.

BARRIE IN FAVOR

"The big problem will come in the isolated camps, where men will be forced to sit around bunkhouses all weekend. It's in these areas that I feel some relaxation of the regulations will have to be made."

Under the new restrictions,

Tribesmen Kill Five In Battling Police

MASERU, Lesotho (UPI) — Armed tribesmen shooting war chants clashed Tuesday with police in this African enclave which won independence from Britain less than three months ago. First reports said five persons were killed.

Undetected, Says Engineering Teacher:

Soviet Super Plane Eyed U.S.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — A new, nuclear-powered Soviet bomber may have made three flights over U.S. territory in 1964 without being detected by American radar defenses, a Lehigh University professor reports in a recently published book.

During these alleged flights — over San Francisco, New York City and Hawaii — the bomber carried a payload equivalent to a 30-megaton hydrogen bomb and a "phantom instrument box" to ward off radar detection, the book says.

In Washington, the defence department said it has "no knowledge of any such penetration nor of any such aircraft." Spokesmen added privately that the story "just doesn't make sense."

The 224-page book, which speculates on these possibilities, is entitled Secret Electronic Espionage and was written by John Carroll, an Industrial engineering teacher at Lehigh.

Carroll attributes his information to an expatriated Korean in California, who supposedly is privy to the details to a meeting of China's ministry of defence in Peking June 15, 1964.

"The meeting allegedly took place . . . when military attaches from the North Korean embassy joined staff members of the Red Chinese ministry of defence to witness a briefing conducted by four officers from the Soviet ministry of defence," writes Carroll.

"The Soviet officers disclosed that during the first week of February, 1964, a new Russian bomber had flown over three strategically important areas of the U.S. without being detected by U.S. radar defenses."

"The areas were San Francisco - Oakland, Calif., New York City and the state of New Jersey, and the Hawaiian Islands. The Soviet officers displayed recently taken aerial photographs of specific military objectives to prove that the planes had accomplished their mission of penetration."

"This plane was, they explained, a nuclear-powered bomber with average speeds of 2,500 miles an hour and a top speed of 3,500 miles an hour."

"It had a ceiling of 85,000 feet and the capability of remaining aloft without refueling" for as many as 21 days.

Train, Oil Truck

Blazing Crash Kills 11

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — A self-propelled train with about 28 persons aboard collided with an oil truck in a fiery explosion at a street crossing about midnight Tuesday night and at least 11 persons were killed.

Many of the victims were trapped in the train as flames almost immediately broke out and the doors jammed.

Police said the train apparently stopped at the crossing on Second Street and was pushed off the tracks when the truck hit it. The truck ruptured, and its contents spilled out in a fiery wave of flames.

The train was reported en route from Boston's North Station to Rockport, Mass.

Everett is an industrial community that lies on the outskirts of Boston.

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston said it had received nine dead from burns and three injured. Whidden Hospital here said it had received two dead and 10 others "in pretty rough" shape.

Three other injured were taken to Chelsea Naval Hospital and one was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Military Fears New Hobbles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fresh round of controversy shaped up over the Vietnam peace war Tuesday with the U.S. defence department's acknowledgement that civilian areas of North Vietnam have been damaged by air attacks.

There was concern among the military that continuing criticism, and the U.S. administration's seeming inability to deal with it, might force new restrictions on what American pilots can do in North Vietnam.

Latest pressures for an official explanation of the scope of

North Vietnamese civilian casualties came with a New York Times dispatch describing death and desolation in residential areas near Hanoi.

Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of The Times, reported "block after block of utter desolation" in the city of Nam Dinh, 50 miles southeast of Hanoi, and 40 persons killed in October raids at Phu Ly, 35 miles south of the Communist capital.

Salisbury, visiting North Vietnam, said some small villages

Trawler Takes Secret Below

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — The big, British stern trawler St. Finbarr sank late Tuesday only 35 miles from St. Anthony, Nfld., and carried the secret of 11 missing crew members with her to the bottom.

Meanwhile, a second British trawler, the Arsinio, which had been towing the St. Finbarr stern first through the teeth of a 30-knot gale, headed for the Newfoundland capital with 13 survivors and the body of a 14th member of the sunken vessel's 25-man crew.

The Orino was reported to be making between 20 and 28 knots through freezing rain and snow on the 400 mile trip here. The agents for the two vessels, Bowring Bros. of St. John's, estimated she would arrive late today.

The 11 crew members who have been missing since the trawler broke out on the 1,138-ton St. Finbarr early Christmas morning are presumed dead. The agents earlier had said some of the men might still be alive, trapped beneath the decks of the 210-foot ship.

It was not known if the Orino had been able to put men aboard the stricken trawler to check,

In other fields of activity:

● B.C. population increased by 4.1 per cent, from 1,789,000 in 1965 to a new high of 1,862,000.

● The labor force made a 6.6 per cent jump from 667,000 to an estimated 711,000; while the unemployment ranks grew only 3 per cent, from 28,000 to 32,000.

● Pulp production rose more than 11 per cent, paper was up 7 per cent, mineral production up 18.3 per cent, farm cash receipts up more than 15 per cent.

Price Rising

TORONTO (CP) — Lever Brothers is raising the price of all its margarine products by one per cent January 1, the company has announced. The increase was attributed to the higher federal sales tax announced in the mini-budget December 14.

maximum penalty for infringement is a fine of $500. Mr. Margison commented: "Most of the work force employed in our major industries is on a 40-hour basic work week, but few men are working just 40 hours."

With the new regulations in effect they will be limited to four hours overtime a week.

USE LARGER FORCE

It will now be necessary to use a larger work force in remote areas, where normally men have worked seven-day weeks.

Your Good Health

Cold Creeps Up with Age

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My feet and legs are always cold up to the knees. Could this be due to poor circulation? If so can anything be done to relieve it? I am past 75. — R.L.K.

At your age (and sometimes a lot younger, too) coldness can indeed be due to faulty circulation. The underlying cause usually is hardening of the arteries.

Various medications may be effective in improving the circulation and making you more comfortable. They may not solve the problem totally, but with most of the creeping ailments of age, smart folks do what is possible to minimize the discomforts instead of expecting total cure.

Another helpful measure, and a simple one, is Buerger's

Exercises, which I have described before. This is simply matter of lying on your back, then raising and lowering each leg alternately. Raising each one for one minute, 10 times, often helps.

In some advanced cases, sympathectomy may be in order. This is an operation and not a risky or complicated one, in which a nerve trunk is cut. The nerve is the one which controls arterial tone. The resultant relaxation of the arteries permits a stronger flow of blood.

Beyond these measures, in some instances a special X-ray study of the arteries can disclose whether any actual obstruction of blood flow is involved. In some severe cases of arteriosclerosis, replacement of a portion of an artery with plastic tubing is possible. I shouldn't forget one more thing, for those to whom it applies. Smokers suffer more because tobacco constricts the surface blood vessels and thus impairs circulation. If you smoke, stop.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am told by my doctor that I have a fissure in the rectum and may need surgery. What is a fissure and what causes it? — Z.B.D.

A fissure is a crack — in this case, in the membrane lining the anus. The usual cause is chronic constipation.

This crack in the skin, or membrane, wouldn't amount to much, except that in this location it usually becomes infected. Therefore it cannot heal, and becomes quite painful. The best correction is surgery.

Russians Seek Lunar Soil

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists hinted Tuesday the Russians may fly samples of the moon's soil back to earth for analysis before trying a manned lunar landing.

They did not say how it would be done. The newspaper Literary Gazette speculated on the composition of the moon's topsoil as the Soviet moon probe Luna 13 tested the firmness of the lunar surface with a mechanical arm and X-rayed it to determine its density.

Swiss Help Both Sides

BERN (AP) — The Swiss government has decided to give 250,000 francs ($62,000) to the Red Cross of North Vietnam to help that country's children. A similar donation went to South Vietnam recently.

Red China May Leap Into Civil War

Agriculture now is the only sector of Chinese life which the extremists have not ordered remade by "class struggle." Even party chairman Mao Tse-tung and his presumptive Lin Piao are, apparently, not yet ready to take on half a billion resentful farmers.

But their decision to extend the cultural revolution into industry and mining is of the greatest significance.

The economy has, hitherto, been protected from the sweeping effects of the twin attempts to make a new world and to destroy the powerful opposition to the Mao-Lin group.

The decision to dare the immense disruption of a cultural revolution in the modern sector of the economy is, at once, the final notice to the pragmatic opposition that Lin Piao will give no quarter and a demonstration of Lin's desperation in the face of tenacious and effective resistance to his hegemony.

With the disintegration of that major restraint it now is likely all restraints will fall. China has, therefore, moved a long step closer to possible civil war.

Only the deliberate restraint of both sides has up to this time prevented widespread violence.

The People's Daily announcement was couched in the most provocative and doctrinaire terms. The newspaper not only ordered a far-reaching purge but also declared industrial enterprises would organize their own "revolutionary groups, committees and conferences."

Those bodies, proclaimed in August as the new government of China, have not so far come into obvious existence in any area. The battle for control of China will be fought out in the country's most sensitive area — the economy.

The directive ordered industry and mining would, in the future, be managed by "revolutionary workers" chosen by "a system of general elections . . . in accordance with the principles of the Paris commune."

Pursuing Mao Tse-tung's utopian vision, the managers of plants will continue to work on the production line and will receive no greater compensation than other workers. They are to be subject to criticism or recall by their fellows at any time.

Having failed to control the managers and technicians, the extremists have determined to destroy them. Technical skills are to be sacrificed to political liability — and, production to ideology.

Czech Art Treasure Expo-Bound

PRAGUE (AP) — One of Czechoslovakia's leading art treasures is being prepared for shipment to Montreal for Expo 67, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK said Tuesday.

It is the Trebechovice Nativity. Insured for 1,500,000 Czechoslovak crowns (officially about $210,000), it will leave by ship for Montreal in January.

The Trebechovice Nativity, now 100 years old, took its creators, farmer Jozef Probst and wood-carver Jozef Kapucian, four years to finish.

It consists of 2,000 hand-carved items, including about 500 moving figures representing all trades and crafts.

Annual Affair Erupts

Italy's Tax War Makes Loren Howl

ROME (UPI)—Italy's annual war between tax collector and taxpayer broke into the open Tuesday with the country's rich and famous howling in grief.

Sophia Loren, her producer-husband Carlo Ponti, Gina Lollobrigida's estranged husband and Rome's biggest building contractor were among those challenging tax assessments published by Rome authorities.

The tax war starts with the publication of municipal assessment lists after Christmas and continues with national assessments in spring and legal battles throughout the year.

Almost all the conflicts are settled after months of quiet dealings between the assessor and lawyers for the taxpayers, who generally wind up paying about half what they were originally billed.

As usual, the assessor estimated most incomes far higher than taxpayer reported — up to 258 times higher in one case.

The assessor, just as he did last year, claimed Miss Loren earned $560,000 in 1966 and billed her for $30,640 in municipal taxes. Ponti's income was put at $156,000 and his taxes at $65,864.

The Pontis, who insisted last year the estimates were astronomically inflated, this year challenged Rome's right to tax them at all. Ponti, who in 1965 became a French citizen, married Miss Loren in Paris last April.

Milko Skofic, the estranged husband of Miss Lollobrigida, also found himself in the same fix as last year — billed for $46,000 on an assessor-estimated income of $320,000. A prosperous publisher, Skofic announced he would fight.

Rome's top taxpayer will be contractor Goffredo Manfredi, who was prominently mentioned a few years ago in an airport construction scandal. The assessor said Manfredi earned $800,000 in 1966 and billed him for $115,200 in taxes. Manfredi listed income of only one-tenth the sum.

Timely Advance

THE BIG NUCLEAR test blast that took place last week at a Nevada testing site was a reminder that both the United States and the Soviet Union are still, quietly for the most part, seeking to improve their nuclear weapons by underground experimentation of this kind. This was the 34th "weapons related" explosion by the United States in 1966, but most of the others have gone almost unnoticed, the latest earning exceptional publicity by its size.

Why the thermonuclear arms that both the great powers have now in their arsenals should need to be made yet more effective is something of a mystery to the ordinary observer; both sides claim already to have hell on a leash. But the rivalry continues in the subterranean testing, which was not included in the partial test ban treaty of 1963.

It can be taken as a most encouraging sign, however, that on the very next day after the large Nevada explosion, American defence department officials announced that the United States had vastly increased its ability to detect, identify and locate underground blasts inside Russia. This was taken by "highly placed sources" as an indication that the United States might soon be ready to modify its demand for on-site inspection as a condition of an underground test ban. The Soviet Union has long maintained that inspections are not necessary; that detection technology is sufficiently advanced to tell the difference between nuclear blasts and natural earthquakes. The United States has as insistently taken the opposite view.

The breakthrough—so it is described—by the United States at this time thus seems of promising significance, and it comes at a time also when it could have important ramifications.

Agreeing on a total test ban could be a step toward the non-proliferation treaty that also would, temporarily at least, give the world a new measure of security. And also even the slightest softening of the American attitude on inspections may have an influence in Moscow on the outcome of U.S. efforts to persuade Russia not to continue with the installation of an anti-missile system which the United States might feel impelled to match, in a new form of arms race.

Self Help Needed

THE TWO MOST generous nations in the world—the United States and Great Britain—are apparently readying themselves for a thorough reappraisal of their present foreign aid programs. In recent weeks both governments have had considerable domestic criticism levelled at them on the grounds that they are giving away too much.

For instance, in England last week, Mr. Francis Noel-Baker, Labor MP for Swindon, told his constituents that a good many of the new nations in the Commonwealth "were becoming a millstone round Britain's neck."

"Some of them," he said, "stay in the Commonwealth to sponge on Britain while they insult us."

A few days later Washington had its say in the matter. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman announced that the United States would in future adopt a "get tough" attitude toward food shipments to needy nations. He pointed out that in the past 18 months America has shipped $1 billion worth of food to India alone, giving some of it outright and taking payment for the rest in Indian rupees which have very limited value.

Though he criticized other "have" nations for not contributing more, his main concern was based on the belief that India seemed to be doing little or nothing to help itself.

Though the Christmas season may appear to be a most inappropriate time to consider means of holding back future gifts to less fortunate nations a modicum of sympathy can be extended to both Britain and the United States.

For years these two nations have been supporting a dozen others through gifts of money, food, schools, hospitals, technicians and machinery. So great has been their help in certain areas that the beneficiaries have shown small inclination to exert any effort to help solve their own problems.

Yet, in return, both Britain and the United States have received from them criticism, insults, and abuse.

Though it may be as admirable to turn the other cheek as it is blessed to give, it is also written that God helps those who help themselves.

Veto From Quebec

THE FEDERAL government's plan to make Sir John A. Macdonald's birthday, January 11, a legal holiday for Canadian students has run afoul of Quebec objections.

Mr. Marcel Masse, a minister without portfolio attached to the Quebec department of education, has dug up allegedly formidable obstacles.

If, he said, the federal cabinet approved this holiday in the centennial year, in honor of one of the Fathers of Confederation and first prime minister of the federated dominion, the province of Quebec would consider this an intolerable piece of interference in its exclusive jurisdiction over education.

Such a presumptuous decision, it appears, would go "directly against the spirit and the letter of the 1867 pact of Confederation."

Besides, the school calendar has already been prepared and Quebec and it would be impossible to modify it on such short notice, said Mr. Masse.

While there can be no doubt that under law Quebec has full jurisdiction in matters of education, it would have been a courteous gesture for the government of that province to have gone along with the federal suggestion even though Sir John was not a Frenchman. It is surely puerile to contend that it would be beyond the powers of the provincial government to make so simple a change in its school calendar as the declaration of a holiday would involve.

Such feeble excuses will be interpreted outside Quebec as still further evidence of the incompatibility of the Quebec government under Premier Daniel Johnson with the present Confederation and a symptom of the published policy of separatism advocated by the Union Nationale.

However, this should not deter the federal government from declaring a holiday on January 11 for the rest of the country who hold Canada's first prime minister in some esteem, not because of his origin or politics, but for his courage, foresight and talent in building the foundation of the nation.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling waxes ...

By TOM TAYLOR

FOR A REASON I have forgotten I required to my late cabinet recently. Long ago I started a file system; and thereafter, mostly, ignored it.

Many a time and oft, after writing a piece on something or other, I have remembered I had some notes on the subject which would have stood me in good stead.

And then, frankly, I was annoyed with myself.

At any rate, however, I have made a discovery. I have a folder marked "games" and another one marked "sports," and I am puzzled to know why. According to the dictionary, to which I pay homage, the terms are practically synonymous.

Nor are my folders much help. One mixes bowls with baseball and the other such incongruities as tiddly-winks and hockey.

Not at all enlightening, really.

Perhaps it was my subconscious mind which separated games from sports, or rather sports. The addition of the plural "s" creates another nuance, thinking of spectator sports. A game is a diversion, something amusing, like an election perhaps. At least one hears it said often that politics is a game.

But sports are an amusement also, unless when the crowd breaks in or one player maims another.

He would be a rash man who would pontificate between games and sports, even if long ago a university professor argued the merits of soccer and rugby by declaring: "One is a gentleman's game played by gentlemen; the other a hooligan's game played by gentlemen."

Which is which I leave to your imagination.

In popular parlance games and sports are intermingled, in any case. A hockey match is usually referred to as a hockey game and a soccer match referred to as a soccer game. The game of cricket seems a contest a match.

There is a contest in both games and sports, you see, else neither would be worth watching or playing. Even a person compelled for company only to a pack of cards plays solitaire against himself, or the odds of the goddess of luck.

The nature of the contest sometimes differentiates between a game and a sport, however. Or, rather sports. As we have noted the plural, often applied to single sport, a "sports encounter," seems to take on a different shade.

It may be all in the game to have one's nose broken, for example, but if the calamity is not sheer accident one may be excused for wondering at a "sports encounter," seems to take on a different shade.

The recipient of the broken nose at least will conclude his opponent is not playing the game.

This is another confusing expression. One plays the game or is a good sport, but one doesn't play a sport or be a good game. Yet supposedly they are synonymous.

A supporter, or a fan as you might prefer to call him, if bloodthirstily inclined, can leave the arena or a stadium swearing he has seen a good game, and all the while blood spatters the coliseum and someone is having his head attached.

A good game but obviously not necessarily a sporty one. The compilers of dictionaries, possibly, were neither gamblers nor sportsmen. They may not have known any difference between the two. Sometimes a spectator is hard put to decide whether there is any difference, or, in reverse, any resemblance.

Games and sports can be as perplexing as my two folders.

Reporting on Vietnam

Correspondents Depressed

By GAVIN YOUNG
from Saigon

IT IS A common complaint among journalists here in Vietnam that they are not "getting through to the readers."

American correspondents come back from leave in the U.S. depressed to have found that, despite the acres of newspaper they have relentlessly filled throughout the year, people are as baffled as they ever were.

In New York or Washington they have been buttonholed to the point of exasperation with the question: "For heaven's sake, tell me, what is going on out there?"

Fortunately, there is a hard core of expert reporters of considerable experience and sensitivity—they tend to write off the rest as "police reporters"—who are painstakingly well-informed about political as well as military developments. The New York Times' Robert Shaplen of the New Yorker and Sol Sanders of U.S. News and World Report know Vietnam thoroughly. Newsweek's covering of economic and political stories has been admirably wide.

For the rest, one wonders what an average American might have thought one morning last spring when the Buddhist uproar suddenly burst onto his newspaper's front page. More than one Kansas householder must have begun reading the startling news that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky had just announced "liberating" Da Nang from the Communists with wild baffle.

Da Nang? The place where all our Marines are? In Communist hands? What goes on?

Vietnam reporters' fixation on the purely military aspects of the war has been slightly diminished by the Buddhist upheavals earlier this year.

When the first Marines landed at Da Nang early last year, many American reporters rushed up there and spent weeks writing stories about "leathernecks storming ashore." They walked up the beaches unopposed while further South in a potentially decisive series of victories the Viet Cong were rapidly destroying the Vietnamese army piecemeal. Few Americans seemed to be reporting that.

The Marines are here! stories also injected a new feeling of badly needed confidence in victory, and that was certainly hard to find in the Vietnamese side of the picture, which is still a baffling, even a trifle sinister area for many correspondents who speak neither Vietnamese nor French.

Since the U.S. buildup, the wild proliferation of war stories has gone on apace. The spirit of Hemingway that lies so heavy in the air can be seen in the number of correspondents walking about in full battle kit complete with pistol.

American correspondents and photographers in Vietnam are astonishingly brave. Many spend weeks after week slopping along with the troops often under fire filing dispatches profusely as they go.

If because of journalistic rivalry a marine landing or air cavalry division action is dramatically compared, as many are, to some major battle of the past—"The biggest since Inchon" or "The second biggest since Normandy"—by the time the 50th operation has taken place the American reader must ask himself why there is still a Viet Cong soldier left on the field.

One of America's military experts, Gen. (Ret.) S. L. A. Marshall, has recently criticized in print what he regards as the inadequacies of American battle reporting in Vietnam. The general's complaint is that there is, not enough of it.

On the contrary, there is probably more than enough.

Up to the moment when burning Buddhists became impossible to ignore, the bulk of the Saigon press corps seems to have entirely ignored the political rumblings that for some months had been giving forewarnings of trouble. Partly perhaps because of language problems; largely because Vietnamese goings-on had come to seem unimportant in the light of the military buildup. For many correspondents, Vietnam had already become an American aircraft carrier.

Soon after the Buddhist crisis, the correspondent of a prestigious U.S. daily asked an American official spokesman: "Say, Harold, aren't there some Catholics in this country? I mean what do they think of all these Buddhists? What are their views on all this, Harold?"

Harold Kaplan, an official of the U.S. Information Service with the refreshing sufficiency of honesty to express private perturbation when he feels it is due, replied that he could hardly speak for Vietnamese Catholics and suggested the correspondent walk up the street and ask them. His remark was received with some resentment.

The best U.S. journalists—who are very good—take the Vietnam assignment with intense seriousness. It merits. They are healthily impervious to official blandishments and neither the South Vietnamese government nor the U.S. embassy can stop them from writing what they want. They are, of course, inhibited by lack of space, and they are a small group—too small.

THE article entitled Land Reform Dangers in Latin America in the Colonist was interesting reading. It seems the Inter-American Development Bank is not in agreement with the much publicized Alliance for Progress when it says the splitting up of the large land holdings in Latin America could do more harm than good.

It is said that less than 1 per cent of Latin Americans own 71.6 per cent of the farmlands. The result of such unequal distribution of the land is that few peasants or their families can afford to go to school. Lack of education results in the lack of teachers, administrators, technicians and doctors. Three-fourths of Latin Americans are constantly hungry. Eighty per cent who work the land do not receive wages; they are paid in foodstuffs or in child labour.

The Alliance for Progress was supposed to better the condition of these people by reforming the unjust structures and systems of land tenure and use. The director of Costa Rica's planning board said, "I don't understand the Alliance, every time we apply for money we are treated like corporation lawyers in front of bankers. Yet the U.S.A. says the Alliance is for social and economic progress. There has never been a banker in the history of the world who lent money for social progress."

On reading the article mentioned above it confirms the idea that social progress will not come to Latin America if the development is left to the Inter-American Development Bank. They will only make it easier for other Castros to take over.

New Morality

The Trend Pushers

By SHAUN HERRON

THE artificially created atmosphere among a section of the literate is such that it is almost obscene to be Anglo-Saxon, over 25, mentally and emotionally adult, happily married, doubtful about the maturity or infallibility in fundamental matters of the 14 to 20 year olds or convinced that sex is only a part of most people's lives.

One may not utter judgments in support of any of these near obscenities without direct censure from some, mindless ridicule from others, and a general blanket of apologetic disbeliefs from the trend-pushers of the moment, as if Tyranus Rex had walked into a conference of the C.I.O.'s "creative talents," or a "convention" of avant garde ministers, and asked to be heard.

One wears of being trampled on by unconsciously comical middle-aged CBC adolescents, avant garde preachers and some other segments of the communications industry; one tires of being called to walk submissively behind partwits who think a normal and recurring tremor in the body politic is the birth full-grown of a new heaven and a new earth. So I make no apology for quoting something as old as the book of Ecclesiastes, known also as The Agnostics Gospel (for those who like references, Chapter 1, Verse 10): "Is there any thing whereof it may be said, See, this is new? It hath been already of old time, which was before us."

Let me take the New Ministers and the New Morality first. Their might be called The Case of The New Discovery of The Old Love. And let me say at once that if any of my children were in their churches I would quickly remove them therefrom, and explain to my children that the first thing a man needs before he can teach anything "new," is knowledge of the history of his subject; and a sense of responsibility; and some knowledge of the plasticity of the young; and a firm and honest recollection of his own youth, if the subject is Love.

Let me quote: "Teenagers today, in their experience of love, are morally a good 15 years in advance of their parents." (From a New Morality address to young people) This is a stupid statement. Fifteen years in the growth or decline of a system of ethics is less time that it takes to blink your eyes.

Again: "The intercourse of unmarried young people who love one another, is more moral than the intercourse of married couples fallen into sexual routine." This also is a stupid statement; it is also meaningless unless you want to make sexual intercourse the sum of "love" and make all the other accumulations of partnership of no account in a life together. What are these New Morality men doing? For one thing, telling growing children whose "agony" is the universal and inescapable biological awakening of their own loins, that is another quotation: "sexual intercourse between youngsters who love one another, is moral."

The assumption behind this eagerness to communicate with the young on this subject, appears to be that something has changed about human experience. Among the "respectable," one thing has: there is more talk. What almost everybody but the publicists and avant garde preachers and sociologists are coming to believe is that there is a great deal more talk than action pro rata to population. This proved to be the case at the University of Western Ontario. The Saturday Evening Post, through an investigation conducted for it by the Elmo Roper organization in the U.S., has just made the same discovery about Americans in general. What the New Morality preachers are in danger of doing, is to extend a situation they imagine to be more radical than it is.

I can find nothing that proves the existence of a New Morality that repudiates the "old" to a significantly increased degree. There are, however, two situations that appear to provide us with comic characters somebody with the proper talent must make use of.

The first is the avant garde preachers preaching of the New Morality to children, when what they are preaching is the ethic of Chaucer's Troilus and Cressida, apparently without knowing that the matrimonial background to that medieval convention—the contractual loveless marriage—does not exist in our society. Indeed, our marriage is the heir to the ethic of Troilus and Cressida and the displacer of contractual marriage.

The other comic tableau is of Mr. Alphonse Ouimet, president of the CBC, and his merry men. Mr. Ouimet told the Senate finance committee his adolescent employees have an obligation to make known the changes of the times, as they are revealed to the under 25.

His Always-on-Sunday set then bring to us the views on sex and marriage of a group of 14-year-olds, who announce a revolution that was old in the 14th century and has been preached—but without a national audience provided by retarded adults—by every generation of the young since time began: Free love; freedom from the burden of binding obligations and all the things almost all of us said before we knew anything about life or growing up, or love.

Dear heaven—how consistent are the young in every generation. And how young are some of their aging young leaders in church and crown corporation. But isn't it time we started telling them that grown men who hold up a raisin and cry excitedly "look, look, a fruit cake," are childish and in the end, no more revolutionary or prophetic than any other professional bores?

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest and if signed with pseudonym, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

by pleasant vegetation decorum, of the origins of which are generally lost in time, I think it is fitting that we reflect on our savage ancestors. One can imagine him, ignorant of astronomy and giving personalities to inanimate as well as animate objects. Imagine his fear as his bright warm friend continued its long journey deeper and deeper into the sky. No doubt he would make days of pathetic appeals and offer gifts to entice his friend back to make him warm again and grow his food. Then about Dec. 21 the sun would look back and being impressed would start its long journey home. What rejoicing and happiness would follow!

Today man is generally inclined to scorn or, even worse, ignore his savage ancestors but we should realize that it is out of his crude stone tools and weapons, his pottery, his basket weaving that our present technology arose. We, so to speak, are standing on his shoulders. And while we have advanced technically there is something he left behind; we have retrogressed socially. It is most significant that in those few remnants of our ancient society, in Africa and North America, although they must admire our production methods, they are reluctant to leave their social structure to enter our society. It is I feel time that we stopped feeling so smug about our "best of all possible worlds" and stopped ascribing their reluctance to join us as some inherent laziness. Perhaps a critical observation would permit us to take the best of both worlds. If we could get rid of their primitive productive ways and our antagonisms and loneliness and combine our socialized production with their feeling of belonging and brotherhood, then we could really celebrate the return of the sun.

U.S. Intrusion

With reference to your editorial: Terror Abroad, I should like to make the following comments:

1. No mention was made of the many other dictators in Latin-America quite as pernicious as Mr. Castro but who are readily supported by the U.S. Although I admit Mr. Castro is a ruthless dictator he is at least a dictator who is trying to better the lot of the masses whereas the dictators in the other countries work only in the interests of the few rich.

2. No mention was made of the fact that the U.S. has broken the terms of the treaty signed in Montevideo prohibiting the intrusion of any OAS power in the domestic affairs of another. In spite of this solemn treaty the U.S. intervened in Santo Domingo and in Guatemala and is still continuing to intervene actively in support of the Guatemalan dictator.

Dr. Raul Leon, who is well-known to me, is doing a very fine job in Venezuela but he, like all other Latin-American rulers is dependent on the goodwill of the armed forces.

In a recent speech Senator Fulbright chided the state department for their continued policy of support for dictators in all parts of the world and he pointed out that, by such a policy, they were building up a very serious future with the certainty of blood-baths in the many countries at present ruled by these dictators. I agree with his point of view 100 per cent and my opinion is based on years of experience in Latin America.

Unfair

On Dec. 11 you gave two "Quotable Quotes" about Germany, the first one by Field Marshal Lord Montgomery naming Germany as the real danger in Europe. This was obviously said sometime during the war. To bring this up now is nonsense or wish will. To disqualify one of our partners in the Western Alliance is unfair.

If our goal is peace for the whole world, the first thing to do is abandon hate.

Friendly Sooke

In time of trouble, sympathy and concrete examples of willing help and friendship come forth from many residents of Sooke, one of the largest electoral Vancouver Island districts.

We have here many retired world travellers; we have former diplomats and United Nations members; we have a member of the World Children Village summer assembly and we have local people with large hearts who will never fail to rise to help in time of need. The right word at the right time may give a human just what was wanted.

Is it not one world? Sooke residents, over the years, have helped in many ways because of local and of world tragedy. This is a tradition.

Suharto Starting Drive To Force Out Sukarno

By CARL T. ROWAN

JAKARTA, Indonesia — The Indonesian army is nearing a critical decision on whether to force President Sukarno from office.

I have learned exclusively that Gen. Suharto, army strong man and chairman of the ruling presidium, is now lining up military support for the "coup de grace" against the controversial Bung Karno.

Suharto journeyed to Bandung last week where he reportedly was pledged the support of the commander of the famed Siliwangi division. He went to Surabaya later seeking the support of the military commander there.

Indonesian sources tell me that the decision to move against Sukarno — if it is made — could come within a few days.

Suharto began to nail down military backing when the trial of former Air Force Commander Omar Dhanl indicated that the aging playboy president was a deliberate plotter and planner of the ill-lated Communist coup attempt of 16 months ago.

BACKGROUND

Several army generals and civilians were murdered in this abortive move by Peking-oriented groups to take complete control of this country of 110,000,000.

Suharto is now being pressed by powerful military and civilian leaders to strip Sukarno of even the figure-head role of president that he has retained since the coup.

They warn that Sukarno has cleverly used his appeal as "the George Washington of Indonesia" to stage a strong political comeback during the past year. Anti-Sukarno forces point out, for example, that marine units loyal to the president are again recruiting Communist youth.

Testimony in the Dhanl trial has caused a swelling up of anti-Sukarno feeling in the press, among students and in the military. So Suharto is being told that this is the hour to move against Sukarno.

As explained to me by highly authoritative sources, Suharto is expected to demand that Sukarno resign quietly. If he refuses, as some expect, he will be warned that the army will cease to restrain the student groups, some of which are prepared to move violently on the palace. The army halted one recent assault by clubbing students to the ground.

Suharto may prefer more "legal" means, however, and ask the MPRS (People's Assembly) to declare Sukarno "out." Gen. A. H. Nasution, once the country's top military man, is now chairman of MPRS. Nasution lost a daughter and was almost killed himself in the coup attempt.

Many officials of this world's fifth largest country are on tenterhooks as they await Suharto's decision. Suharto has been extremely cautious, preferring to chip away Sukarno's power rather than make the all-out confrontation that some say could produce civil war.

Despite the fact that he plunged Indonesia into economic chaos and almost delivered the people to Chinese Communist domination, Sukarno remains a symbol of unity in this chaotic string of islands. He reputedly still has the support of elements of the navy, the air force and the marines.

Nasution has been even more cautious than Suharto. As early as 1956 he started to move the army against Sukarno only to back away at the moment of crisis.

But high Indonesian sources expressed confidence that Suharto is now ready to move. If not, they argue, Indonesia's troubles down the road will be infinitely more difficult than the admittedly tough decision Gen. Suharto is asked to make now.

Operation Bernhard

Counterfeit Bills Recall Days Of Nazi Forgeries

By LEO HEIMAN

NICOSIA, Cyprus—Twenty-five years after Nazi Germany's Operation Bernhard was launched to flood the world with counterfeit Western currency, bogus money is back in circulation in the Middle East, according to banking circles here.

In Israel, Cyprus, Lebanon, Turkey and Greece, counterfeit dollar bills worth $1,340,000 have been seized by authorities over the last two years. No one knows how many "perfect forgeries" are still circulating, undetected by local banks and merchants. They can be spotted only by the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank in New York, and by that time the damage has been done.

The story of Operation Bernhard has been told often. Bernhard Kruger, a lietenant-colonel of Hitler's elite S.S. troops, was in charge of technical forgeries section at the headquarters of the Nazi Security service in Berlin. This section began working in 1938, fabricating bogus documents implicating top Soviet generals in anti-Stalin plots and leaking the forged papers to the suspicious Communist tyrant. Soviet secret police purged the framed generals, executing or banishing to Siberia over 20,000 Red army officers.

Forgeries Successful

Encouraged by the success of his forgery operations, Hitler authorized Kruger's section to print bogus stamps, food ration cards, gasoline coupons, identity papers and passports for Nazi undercover operatives in European countries.

With most of Europe swept into Germany's orbit, orders were issued to round up Jewish bankers, graphic artists, printing experts and money-circulation specialists, and send them to the Third Reich's counterfeiting centre at the notorious Sachsenhausen concentration camp.

From November 1941 through January 1945, Operation Bernhard One produced 135,000,000 pounds sterling, worth about $540,000,000 at the wartime exchange rate. According to documents subsequently published by Allied investigations commissions, one-third of this sum was parlayed into genuine U.S. dollars, gold coins, gilt-edged bonds and industrial shares that were mailed away in foreign banks, as a nest egg for Nazism's revival after Germany's surrender. Most of these sums were never retrieved by the Allies, and the current resurgence of neo-Nazi groups in Western Germany perhaps can be traced to this source of ill-gotten wealth.

One-Third Traced

Only one-third of the forged money was eventually traced after the war and destroyed by Bank of England investigators, working together with operatives of the British Intelligence Service and U.S. Army's Counter Intelligence Corps.

To make sure hot money did not bother them again, the British withdrew from circulation all currency notes of 5, 10, 20 and 50-pound denominations, leaving only one-pound notes as legal tender, until new bills could be printed. It was assumed at that time that the Germans did not bother forging one-pound notes.

"But it turns out we were

Enraged by Raids

But only now is the true story emerging. Enraged by U.S. Air Force raids on German cities, Hitler authorized Operation Bernhard Two, designed to counterfeit $500,000,000 in "perfect" notes. The operation was delayed by technical difficulties with paper, ink and serial number sequences. But in January 1945, a trial amount of $5,000 was passed without trouble through Swiss banks, and none bounced back.

British and American agents found the master plates for $500 notes, and destroyed them in May 1945.

NATO officials admit that bogus dollar notes in 50 and 100 denominations, bearing before-1945 dates of issue, now are flooding the countries of Eastern Mediterranean.

Astronauts 'Will Die'

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Argentina's most popular astrologer has forecast that several spacemen will lose their lives in an accident in 1967.

But the astrologer, Marino Pagliaro, did not specify where the accident would take place.

He said the accident will be just one low spot in a "tremendously unfavorable" year that will see the world come to the brink of war but step back again.

Among other predictions: Britain will be beset by internal troubles; France will take a sharp turn to the left; troubles in Spain may lead to the withdrawal of Francisco Franco as head of state; French President de Gaulle will only just avoid a similar fate; both China's Chairman Mao Tse-tung and U.S. President Lyndon Johnson will be harassed by failing health.

Thant Trusted But Ignored

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — U Thant still is secretary-general of the United Nations, after five difficult years, because most member countries—Russia and the United States above all—believe they can rely upon him to be impartial.

It is ironic, then, that he has yet to hold the confidence simultaneously of all interested parties in the Vietnam conflict.

In 1964, he got North Vietnam to agree to send an envoy to Rangoon, capital of his native Burma, for secret peace talks. The Americans gave no answer for a long time — despite Thant's evident conviction that the move was worth exploring — and finally declined with the comment that the North Vietnamese weren't serious.

Now the United States, through its UN ambassador Arthur Goldberg, has asked Thant to do whatever he thinks necessary to bring about cease fire talks. The Viet Cong guerrilla radio called this move fraudulent, although it described Thant as "a well-meaning personality."

China still professed to see Thant merely as an agent of U.S. interests. It denounced Goldberg's letter to Thant, delivered Dec. 19, as "another U.S. peace-talks swindle."

Reliable diplomatic sources say Thant is trying to reach the Viet Cong, concentrating on them for the moment rather than North Vietnam or China. His immediate objective is said to be a truce of perhaps five or six weeks.

But the general view among diplomats appears to be that Thant's latest peace efforts are, if anything, less promising than they were at the outset. They base this view on the quick and vigorous resumption of U.S. bombing after the Christmas truce, which they say, probably damages Thant's standing in the eyes of the Viet Cong and North Vietnam.

Washington, while asking him to do something, is showing no disposition to take his advice.

It could scarcely be clearer that Thant and Washington still are in disagreement as to what the situation in Vietnam requires.

Thant thinks the Americans must stop bombing North Vietnam once and for all. In the 21-year history of the UN, no secretary-general has been plainer and blunter in stating his view on a question of world importance.

Thant says that both sides must begin simultaneously to scale down the ground fighting, but a cessation of air attacks, being waged by the United States alone, is the indispensable first step.

Council Better For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Talk of turning Ottawa into a federally-run district has drawn a counter proposal.

Actuary John Kroeker, 27, an also-ran mayoralty candidate Dec. 5, sent this telegram to Prime Minister Pearson, Premier Roberts of Ontario and Mayor Don Reid of Ottawa.

"Recent performance of Ottawa city council not distinguished but better than that of Parliament."

"Suggest as counter-offer that Ottawa city council run Canada instead, thus eliminating Parliament."

Mr. Kroeker, dismissed by the federal government in 1965 for criticizing the Canada Pension Plan, offered his services as an intermediary in the switch.

Moscow TV Shows Sweeping View From Luna on Moon

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow television Tuesday night showed a panorama of the moon taken from the Soviet unmanned spaceship Luna XIII.

The series of pictures apparently was shot by a revolving camera within the spaceship. The pictures were clear and detailed, giving a sweeping view of a barren, rocky landscape.

Telephones Ring Up New Record

Volume of traditional Christmas Day long-distance phone calls set a new record at the Victoria switchboard, B.C. Telephone Co. reported Tuesday.

Despite the special offer of holiday rates on Boxing Day, Victorians did the customary thing and jammed switchboards with 19,450 calls Dec. 25, according to traffic manager Gordon Murphy.

Average for an ordinary December weekday is 7,000 or more, Mr. Murphy said.

Previous record was 16,350 calls placed Christmas Day last year.

The phone company made its Boxing Day rate reduction because Christmas fell on a Sunday when rates are always lower.

Luna XIII made a controlled landing on the moon Saturday night after a three-day flight. The only other pictures shown from it were two stills on Sunday.

A similar panorama was transmitted by the Soviet Luna IX which last Feb. 3 became the first spaceship to soft-land on the moon. Luna XIII has been described as similar to Luna IX.

The two spaceships are part of Soviet preparations to land a man on the moon.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported soon after the television broadcast that a transmission Monday sent back the panorama.

CONFIRMS DETAILS

Prof. Alexander Lebedinsky, a Soviet lunar expert, confirmed in the Tass account that the pictures were taken by a television camera making a full revolution inclined at an angle of 15 degrees.

The account explained that because of the inclination the closest sections of the pictures were taken at a distance of less than a metre (39.37 inches). The result was that these sections show details down to one-thousandth of a metre.

Things of special interest shown by the pictures include small craters of irregular shape, many stones and cracks and rough spots in the area.

Tass said that while Luna XIII landed in the same Ocean of Storms area as Luna IX, preliminary data indicate that there are surface differences.

Gandhi Averts Fiery Suicides

AMRITSAR (AP)—A last-minute agreement by Prime Minister Gandhi averted the suicides by fire Monday of six Sikhs, ended the 10-day fast of Sikh leader Sant (saint) Fateh Singh and removed a grave threat of communal violence in India.

Fateh Singh slipped orange juice offered by Hukam Singh, Mrs. Gandhi's emissary, after they conferred on Sikh demands for territorial and administrative changes in the new Sikh state of Punjab.

"Everything has been amicably settled," Fateh Singh said. Hukam Singh, speaker of the lower house of Parliament and a Sikh, came to this walled city and hamlets have been "almost obliterated" by U.S. attacks. Washington reaction came swiftly.

The defence department, in its latest statement on civilian casualties, said "it is impossible to avoid all damage" to residential areas when the Communists deliberately erect anti-aircraft sites, fuel supplies, radar and other military facilities in the midst of populated areas.

But the department said no civilian areas are targets for bombing strikes.

Nevertheless, Senator William Proxmire (Dem. Wis.) said Congress should look into the matter. He called The Times story a "serious statement by a highly respected reporter."

Senator Karl E. Mundt (Rep. S.D.), a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he would be surprised if the committee "didn't get into the effectiveness of the bombing" at hearings planned for next month.

But another Republican, Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, looked at the report with a critical eye, saying The Times always has been against the war in Vietnam.

"It's strange to me that they (Hanoi) will let a New York Times reporter in but not objective reporters," said Hicklen, top-ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee.

In private conversations, military men said there have been a number of civilian deaths and undoubtedly there will be others as long as the Communists set up anti-aircraft batteries or store fuel for Communist truck convoys near North Vietnamese residential areas.

COMMUNITY PLANNING AREA NUMBER 4 ADJOURNMENT OF PUBLIC HEARING

Until January 3, 1967. (Note Change of Date)

There were requests at the public hearing on December 19 for an adjournment to allow more time for the preparation of briefs and further study of the proposals.

The public hearing is therefore adjourned to 8:00 p.m. on Tuesday, January 3, 1967, at the same place, the auditorium of Belmont School on Jackson Road.

A copy of the proposed official zoning map may be inspected at Room 446 of the Douglas Building, 617 Government Street, between the hours of 8:30-12:00 and 1:10-5:00, on the 28th to the 30th of December, and on January 3, 1967. Copies of the proposed regulation are available at the same place.

All persons who deem their interest in property affected by the proposed regulation shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard.

Gales, High Seas Erase Remains Of Shattered Ship

HALIFAX (CP)—A few hatch covers and bits of oil-coated driftwood on a Sambro beach about 16 miles south of here were the only visible remains Tuesday of the 7,300-ton Panamanian freighter Tegean.

Gales and high seas Christmas day and Monday washed the shattered remains of the 23-year-old former Liberty ship off shoals where the vessel grounded Nov. 28.

Pounding seas split the vessel in three last Tuesday. Two days later a demolition crew used nearly two tons of explosives to blow the Tegean's engine room and oil tanks out of the mid-section.

BLAST SUCCESSFUL
Walter Partridge, president of Atlantic Salvage and Dredging Ltd., said the demolition work by his men had been a complete success "even beyond our expectations."

Mr. Partridge said it had never been his company's intention to blow up the ship but rather to eliminate the danger of oil pollution to surrounding waters and nearby beaches by blasting out of the ship any oil that remained in her tanks.

This required a strong northerly wind that would carry the released oil far out to sea. Mr. Partridge said the fuel oil "has a fairly short life on the water surface, and if we could get it blowing off-shore for at least four hours the problem would be solved."

No oil was sighted on the surface following the explosion.

RAN AGROUND

The Tegean was abandoned by her 43-man crew shortly after she ran aground on shoals known as The Sisters. She was en route here to have her holds fitted for grain carrying.

Mr. Partridge said a survey is to be made today to determine exactly where the separate bow, stern and mid-sections of the vessel had settled.

Guinness, that famous old Irish brew. In a pub! Not quite a beer; not quite an ale. Something quite different! Rich, creamy texture. Deep ruby colour. A subtle hint of bitterness. Try a Guinness for a change. It may grow on you.

Russia Still Wants Wheat

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union reaped an all-time record grain harvest of 171,000,000 tons this year, but may still import wheat from Canada, Agriculture Minister Vladimir Matskevich said Tuesday.

The bumper crop, between 6,000,000 and 11,000,000 tons more than official estimates, will help re-stock granaries depleted by poor harvests in 1963 and 1965.

Matskevich told correspondents here, however, that it still is cheaper to buy wheat from Canada and ship it across the Pacific than to ship Russian wheat overland to the Soviet Far East.

EXPORT AND IMPORT
He said the Soviet Union hopes to continue exporting wheat as well as importing it, and it is his task to see that

CHINESE HARVEST

China also announced it reaped the biggest grain harvest in its history this year.

The official New China News Agency said the achievement was made despite severe natural calamities in many parts of the country. No figures were given.

An all-around increase was gained both for rice in the south and dry crops in the north, the agency said.

"The fact that high yields can be obtained from dry-land crops opens up the prospect that North China's traditional dependence on the south for food

Foundation Planned To Save Whales Trapped in Arctic

EDMONTON (CP)—A charter will be sought today for a charitable foundation for money collected in the campaign to save beluga whales trapped in an Arctic lake 1,200 miles northwest of Edmonton.

P. J. Benson, acting as Edmonton representative for the save-the-whales campaign organized by the Inuvik, N.W.T., Lions Club, said Tuesday he will apply for the charter.

Mr. Benson said $3,500 worth of equipment and supplies donated Saturday by two Edmonton firms and flown free of charge by a third firm already is ready to be installed at Eskimo Lake, 30 miles northeast of Inuvik.

The whales were trapped in Eskimo Lake after falling to get through a maze of lakes and peninsulas to the Arctic Ocean and thence to the Pacific Ocean.

Mr. Benson said the foundation is needed to guarantee payment to an Eskimo who has agreed to stay at Eskimo Lake and keep the equipment running for $12 a day.

The equipment was needed to keep a hole in the ice so the mammals can surface to breathe.

"When I talked to Inuvik on the 24th, they thought there were still 12 left," Mr. Benson said when asked how many of the original 17 whales were still alive.

The whales have been keeping a hole open since the water froze in October but the hole has gradually been getting smaller.

Kansas City Chiefs had to work out in snow storm yesterday as they prepared for American Football League final on Sunday against Buffalo Bills. And conditions were same for the Bills and Green Bay Packers, who meet Dallas Cowboys Sunday in National Football League final although they moved south to avoid it. Reps Have Trouble With Pickup Club

Victoria's rugby representatives found Monday that they need not meet the Vancouver representatives to get strong opposition.

The Vancouver team cancelled its Boxing Day match against the local team and to fill the gap a team was assembled by the Victoria Rugby Union president.

That's when the battle began and the reps had to struggle to win, 16-10, at University of Victoria.

Don Burgess kicked a penalty for the reps in the first half and the president's team went ahead on a try by Paul Carnes, converted by Bill Muir.

Trials by Tod Fiddick, Mike Eckardt and Gerry Montgomery and two conversions by Burgess gave the reps their 16 points and the president's XV answered with a try by Doug Patterson and another conversion by Muir.

Something Different in Air Leafs May Be Ready to Rise

There was something different in the atmosphere in the office of the Victoria Maple Leafs yesterday.

The change was no blatant thing but there to be detected was an air of confidence.

It had replaced the trepidation that could be noted during the past few weeks when the club slipped rather quickly down the Western Hockey League ladder through a combination of injuries and exorbitant of the full penalty for the little mistakes which mean the difference between winning and losing.

A 3-2 victory over the Canucks in Vancouver Monday undoubtedly was a major cause for optimism but there was more to it than that.

It wasn't just that the Leafs had finally prevailed over Canucks after five successive beatings. It was the way victory had been accomplished, plus the fact that the club is getting near peak strength again after a series of major and minor injuries.

Except for Fred Hucl, who is through for the season, the Leafs will be at full strength no later than the end of the week.

Centre Larry Keenan, who broke a heel in his sixth game, has been skating well in work-outs and will return to the line-up either tonight or Saturday against San Diego Gulls.

And the Leafs who have been playing despite injuries which had to affect their performances are on the mend.

STRANGE AFFLICTION

"We're getting healthier," Hucl said yesterday, "and if we can just start winning at home I think that we will be around the bend."

Winning on Memorial Arena ice, where they were all but impregnable last season, has been something that has been difficult this season.

The record shows the Leafs, at 5-8-2, to be one of the best road clubs in the league. But at 5-7-2 they rate only below the Oakland Seals as a home club.

CHANCE IS THERE

It's a situation that shouldn't normally last too long, and the Leafs this week are faced with a great chance to do something about it.

They are home for the next two games, tonight and Saturday, and they meet the Gulls both times. It not only gives the chance to balance their home record but with the right set of results in other games, a pair of victories would put the Leafs in fourth-place and only two points away from third place.

"If we play like we did in Vancouver we'll get our winning streak started," Hucl said.

To win on Monday, the Leafs had to come up with something extra, and they did it with three second-period goals, some great penalty-killing late in the game and some great goaling by Al Smith.

Clucks got the only goal of the first period as a result of one of the "little things" which have plagued the Leafs so often in recent games.

HOOK IT OFF

They had possession in the Vancouver zone with less than a minute left when the Canucks shot the puck out to centre-ice, where it was picked up by Sandy Hucul.

Hucul waited until his teammates were ready, then slipped the puck off the boards toward the Vancouver zone. But the puck hit a linesman, caromed onto a Vancouver stick and the Canucks got a three-on-two break which ended with Ray Brunel scoring at 19:34.

PROVING A FIND

But the Leafs, led by the ever-improving Mike Laughton, were ahead before the second period was two minutes old and had a 3-1 lead for the last period.

The rookie centre, scored at 51 seconds of the middle period and after Andy Hebertson scored 42 seconds later, beat Don Simmons with a great shot late in the period for what was to be the winning goal.

Ron Boshoff put Canucks back into things in the fourth minute of the third period but the Leafs didn't yield a bit although Laughton and Bill Shweta drew penalties in the last five and a half minutes.

"They played real well," the happy and relieved Hucl said about his club.

Hucl took over from coach Frank Marzio, who left to catch a plane for Regina to attend a father's funeral after the second period.

CHICAGO 3, NEW YORK 2

New York Rangers, the perennial doormats of the National Hockey League, have bounced up into a more exalted world and you don't have to look far for two of the reasons.

One is goaltender Ed Giacomin, who has been superb, and the other is a revitalized Bernard "Boom Boom" Geoffrion.

Giacomin was brilliant Sunday as the Rangers blanked the Black Hawks, 1-0, and equally spectacular Tuesday as the Hawks edged through for a 3-2 win.

Stan Mikita's first goal Tuesday, scored as he converted Pierre Pilote's pass with a short backhand, ended Giacomin's shutout string against Chicago at 194 minutes, 16 seconds.

Giacomin had blanked the Hawks in his last two starts against them. Sunday's shutout gave him his fifth blanking of the season, one better than Roger Crozier of Detroit, and his goals-against average for the season now stands at 2.03.

STILL HAS IT

Geoffrion got the winner Sunday and another goal Tuesday for his fifth and sixth goals in the last four games, bringing his season's tally to 11.

The Rangers haven't played half their road schedule yet but they have already amassed more points in opposition rinks than they did all last season.

THEY'RE STEADY

It was the Rangers' third loss in the last 16 games and their sixth road loss of the season against seven wins and three ties. Chicago has won six, lost five and tied two road games.

Mikita's two goals moved the Hawks to within two points of the Rangers and ran his goal production of the season to 15 as he twice pulled the Hawks level with the Rangers.

BOBBY DID IT

Bobby Hull got his 14th of the season when he slapped in a goal following a face-off with less than four minutes remaining to break the tie.

The hard-fought game ended in a brawl when the final buzzer sounded. It was touched off when Pilote and Vic Hadfield exchanged a few blows. New York's Reg Fleming and Chicago's Ken Hodge picked it up and got into a wild fight as all the players from both teams charged onto the ice.

Fleming and Hodge were both given five-minute penalties.

Next game: Tonight—Boston at Montreal.

Wings Get Close To Ending Streak

Detroit Red Wings are getting closer to ending a record of futility away from home which almost brought them a new National Hockey League record.

They tied the Bruins, 4-4, in Boston last night and while the result left them winless in 15 successive road games, it did end the threat of erasing the league record of 16 defeats in a row set by Chicago Black Hawks in the 1953 to 1954 season.

HOWE TIED IT

A tip-in goal by Gordie Howe, his eighth of the season, in the 16th minute of the third period brought the tie and prevented the Bruins from increasing their lead over the sixth-place Wings to three points.

Leo Bolvin, former Boston captain, scored twice for the Wings and Alex Delvecchio got their other goal.

Bruins, who have won only one of their last 15 starts, got two goals from Pit Martin and a fine performance from a new line centred by Bobby Orr.

SET UP TWO

Orr, the 18-year-old rookie who broke in as a defenceman, centred for Ed Westfall and Ron Stewart and played against Delvecchio, Howe and Parker MacDonald.

Orr set up each of his teammates for a goal as his line matched the output from the Wings' top unit.

On Sunday, the Wings could do nothing right as they took a 4-0 trimming from Montreal Canadiens. Only fine goalkeeping by Roger Crozier, who had to contend with 43 shots, kept the score reasonably respectable.

In Sunday's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs got two goals from Jim Pappin in a 4-2 win over the Bruins which continued to widen the gap between the four clubs holding down playoff positions and the two behind them.

Don't Send, Take Your Parents

Young hockey fans who have had their troubles getting Dad to take them to Memorial Arena to watch Victoria Maple Leafs get a chance to show up the old folks tonight.

Tonight is "Parents' Night" at Memorial Arena and any youngster purchasing a children's ticket for the Western Hockey League game between the Leafs and San Diego Gulls will be entitled to purchase two adult tickets at children's prices—any seat in the house at half-price.

That means six people can go for the price of three, as long as two of the six are young enough to qualify as a child.

Offence-Minded Blades Seem Like Solid Threat

Los Angeles Blades, a hopeless, dispirited group last season, are blossoming into a solid Western Hockey League threat.

Making up for what so far has been the least defence in the league with a high-powered offence, the Blades have won four in a row to move into third place and challenge for second.

And if they retain their ability to handle Portland Buckaroos, they may eventually pose a threat to the league leaders.

Blades made it four in a row Monday by defeating the Buckaroos, 5-4, a result which made them the only club to hold a seasonal edge over the runaway leaders. Blades have a 3-2-1 record for their six games against the Oregonians.

In another game Monday, Seattle Totems scored three goals in the third period to edge San Diego Gulls, 4-3. On Sunday, the Gulls lost to Portland, 1-4.

UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Jayvees, leaders in the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League, and the senior "B" Red Lions of Victoria meet tonight in the finals of the annual Bob Whyte Memorial Basketball Tournament.

Both made it last night, but only after getting stiff arguments from their opposition.

BOTH CLOSE

The favored Jayvees got a good tussle from the University of Victoria Vikings before winning the second game at Central Junior High School, 77-71.

And Red Lions had to come from behind to beat Victoria Chinooks, 65-58, in the other semi-final.

Gordie Hogg led Jayvees, who had a 33-24 half-time lead, with 18 points. Bill Carson of Vikings topped that with 20 as the Vikings came back in the second half to get within two points and then lost it in the last minute.

Chinooks looked like easy winners as they took a 35-25 lead over Red Lions in the first half but Jim Cunningham and Ed

Steele got hot together in the second half.

Cunningham got 15 of his 20 points and Steele 13 of his 17 after the intermission to bring Red Lions back. Rick Hummel led Chinooks with 20 points.

The tournament concludes at Central Junior tonight with the losers playing at 6 and the winners at 8.

Rash of Birdies Gives Swetnam Colonist Honors

A run of four birdies guided Keith Swetnam to success in the men's low gross honors in the Daily Colonist Christmas Tree golf tournament at the Uplands course Monday.

Playing his home course skillfully, Swetnam birdied the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th to finish with a one-over par 71.

Two strokes back was Vic Painter, a previous winner.

BIGelow THIRD
George Bigelow, a three-time winner of the tournament that has been washed out by bad weather the last two years, had a gross 80.

Uplands golfers dominated the tournament, the only one played in Canada during Christmas.

LOW NET
John Furstenberg won the low net with a 75-8-47, Roger Bishop won the section for golfers with handicaps between 0 and 7 with a net 60, Jim Reside won the 8-10 golfers with a net 71 and Maureen Hiltner won the women's low gross with a 93.

Swetnam, runner-up in his club's championship, covered the front nine in four-over 30, the same as the challenging Painter.

THREE UNDER PAR
Despite a bogey on 18, he finished with a three-under 32 as Painter shot a 34.

Also on the birdie trail was Roger Bishop of Uplands who shot four on the back nine to finish with a 74 gross.

Indians Win Second Game Since Strike

QUEBEC — Springfield Indians, back at full strength with the reinstatement of the four players suspended by owner Eddie Shore, bested Quebec Aces here Tuesday night, 6-4.

It was the second victory in three games for the Indians since they threatened to go on strike over the suspensions.

They trounced Providence Reds, 3-0, on Friday night, then took a 1-0 beating in return on Sunday after Shore had reinstated defencemen Dale Rolfe, Bill White and Dave Amadio and centre Brian Kilrea.

Pick Gymnast

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet sports writers reported today that world champion gymnast Mil-lie Voronin has been voted Soviet Athlete of the Year in a public poll.

Secures Her Future

Dennis Ralston relaxes in his Bakersfield, Calif., home with his nine-month-old daughter, Angela Denise, yesterday after signing a three-year professional tennis contract reportedly calling for $100,000. Ralston, 24, was the No. 1 ranked U.S. amateur player.

Tourists Missed By Russian Fans

MOSCOW (CP)—Some Soviet sports writers are chagrined that a one-month hole has been punched in the schedule of Russia's best hockey league because of playing commitments in Canada.

Two days before Christmas, the No. 1 national team left for another nine-game stint in Canada, including three games at the centennial invitational tournament in Winnipeg. This team's tour of Canada does not end until Jan. 12.

The two teams are made up of the best players on the three top teams in Russia's best league—Army, Spartak and Dynamo. The resulting hiatus in the schedule is referred to somewhat sarcastically as the "winter holidays" by a writer in Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party.

Under the headline, "Hockey leaves the country," the newspaper concedes that a Canadian tournament is "an excellent hockey school—if not an academy—for our young players as well as our venerable players."

"Granted that, however, it is impossible to view indifferently the annual export of our best hockey across the ocean for a whole month. . . . For millions of lovers of this game in this country, hockey-less, winter holidays ensue until the middle of January."

A note of disappointment is also evident in references by other newspapers to the schedule interruption, including the government organ Izvestia and Vechernya Moskva (Evening Moscow).

REBUKE IN HEADLINES

Izvestia headlines its account, "And again an interruption," while Evening Moscow's story carries the headline, "Interruption of big hockey."

Russia sends its national team to Canada annually at this time of year for an exhibition series, but this is believed the first time it has sent two national teams on overlapping tours.

The comments in the press testify to the popularity of hockey in the Soviet Union, holder of the world championship.

CAHA Secretary Advocates Two Tournaments Each Year

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Two international hockey tournaments involving Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden should be staged every season, Gordon Juckes of Melville said Tuesday.

Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the tournaments would help prevent one-sided defeats such as those administered in Newfoundland by the touring Russian national team.

NO OPPOSITION

"It is just about impossible for us to provide good games for selected or national teams from Russia, Czechoslovakia or Sweden unless we put together an all-star team or use our national team," Juckes said in a telephone interview.

"Canadian club teams aren't strong enough any more to meet top European teams on even terms."

HAD SHORT NOTICE

"If hometown people want to see their own teams play against European competition, we'll schedule games with the West Germans, for example, or Polish or Finnish national teams."

Juckes said the four games scheduled for the Russians in the Maritimes were set up on short notice after Russia withdrew from the annual Walter Brown tournament at Colorado Springs.

"We were virtually forced to give the Russians three games to replace the ones they weren't going to play in the United States. We already had scheduled six games in Canada—three against our national team and three in our international tournament at Windsor."

"We scheduled the games in the Maritimes because the Russian national team hasn't been seen there previously. If we thought about it, we'd have realized the games wouldn't be close—but I didn't think the scores would be more than 11-1 or 11-2."

U.S. Team Walloped By Canada

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Canada's national hockey team walloped the United States national team, 5-1, here Tuesday night in the second game of the Walter Brown memorial hockey tournament.

Two teams from Canada and two from the United States are taking part in the tournament, which in previous years was between the national teams from Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden.

On Monday night, the Canadian nationals were held to a 5-1 tie by the Western Canada Selects.

Juckes said the CAHA decided not to schedule the national team in Western Canada because the Moscow Selects already had played in the west. The Czech national team was scheduled for three games in Ontario.

The proposal that two international tournaments should be held each year on a rotating basis depends upon the ability of Canada to find a national B team, Juckes said.

"That way, Canada would have either an A or a B tournament every second year."

A league of teams from the four countries is desirable but too expensive, Juckes said. He did not predict when such international tournaments might be established permanently.

"Canada would be helped by such a rotating system because it's almost impossible for our national team to get good competition."

"Our national team is too good for Canadian club teams and no pro teams except New York Rangers of the National League will play us so we have to schedule games with reinforced or all-star teams."

Christmas Tree Event Snaps Weather Jinx

Thirteen was a lucky number for The Daily Colonist Christmas Tree Golf Tournament, played with a record field at Uplands Golf Club on Boxing Day.

It was the 13th time that Canada's only open golf tournament of the Christmas season had been scheduled, but it ended a run of two years in which a fall of snow had caused cancellation of the event. Those were the only two years missed.

The weatherman this time relented and abated for his two books of the previous years.

When play started at 8:15 a.m. the sun was just beginning to show from behind Mount Baker. It was chilly of course for the early starters as the wind blew out of the north, but by 10 o'clock the sun was shining from an unclouded sky. The wind eased; windbreakers and scarves were peeled off and by early afternoon it was very nearly shirt-sleeve golf.

The field consisted of 160

players of which 38 were women. In their bright reds, whites, greens and blues the girls added color to the trim Uplands course.

One of the youngest players in the field, Keith Swetnam of the Uplands club was the winner of the men's championship. The 23-year-old golfer led the field by two clear strokes with his one over par 71. Nearest rival was a previous winner, Vic Painter with 73.

It was Keith's first big tournament win, although he has performed notably in junior and club events.

"Everything within six feet of the hole was dead," said Keith, explaining his victory. Missed short putts were the complaint of most of his rivals.

Mrs. Hibberson Wins

The women's champion turned up in Maureen Hibberson, also of the Uplands club. She is the wife of Eric Hibberson, one of the district's top golfers. Mrs. Hibberson shot 93 for a one-stroke edge over Lil Thirlwell, who on several occasions in this tournament has finished in second spot.

The chief net prizes, which like the gross prizes were donated by The Daily Colonist, went to John Furnston and Mrs. Vi Sinclair. Furnston, like Swetnam and Mrs. Hibberson, belongs to the host club, but Mrs. Sinclair prevented a clean sweep of the silverware for the Uplands, by winning for Gorge Vale.

One of the most popular figures around the club house was Santa Claus.

In his traditional scarlet and white suit and flowing white beard, Santa was providing cheer for the players as they reached the half-way mark in their rounds.

During a break Santa was urged to go out and hit one. With press and television cameras whirling Santa picked up a nearby driver, borrowed a ball from Sam Swetnam, father of the new champion, and with a graceful swing through his flowing beard slammed the ball more than 230 yards down the middle of the fairway.

Everyone cheered except Sam, who had to take the long journey to retrieve the ball Santa had smacked "a mile". "We should sign that guy for our club team," quipped one Uplands member.

While Santa was showing the competitors how to do it, some of the girls were drawing wistful glances from the men as they made a dazzling fashion display in the brilliant sunshine.

Sartorial Elegance

There was a prize also for sartorial elegance and Mrs. N. Poitras of the Uplands club was picked as the winner.

She was one of several who chose the traditional red, white and green coloring of Christmas, with a red skirt, white sweater and a flowing green and white scarf.

The men also had a prize for the one who caught the eye of the Tailor and Outfit expert. He was George Birnie, also of the Uplands club.

George wore black and white check plus fours and a multi-colored Fair Isle sweater to make a natty appearance on his way round the course.

In the brilliantly decorated Uplands golf clubhouse, the Colonist was host for the luncheon.

Huge slabs of roast beef were carved by Jim Kostouros in his tall chef's hat, while Kurt Adrian was in charge of the kitchen.

"That's just what the doctor ordered," said one golfer as he munched his way through the delicacies. "It takes a game of golf to restore the appetite at this time of the year."

Then came the big event of the day — the prizegiving.

Made Up for Misses

"This lovely day has made up for the two misses in 1964 and 1965, and we are very glad that such a very large number of golfers turned up this year to give us such a good restart," he said.

Mr. Bower then presented the prizes, after which the Uplands club, the district committee and all those connected with the tournament were thanked by Harry Young, who has been chairman of the tournament since it was established in 1954.

After receiving his award Keith Swetnam complimented the Uplands greens staff, headed by Eduardo Ribeiro, for grooming the course to its splendid condition.

Greens Cut

There was no doubt he was right. The recent mild weather kept the grass growing, and the staff had been out cutting the greens earlier in the week.

"I have not seen the course in better shape at this time of the year," said one visiting player.

Even the low-lying parts of the course were showing little sign of the heavy rains which had been falling on the district from early December.

Excellent Job

John Wren, and his assistant pro, Eric Wright, made an excellent job of handling the big crowd and getting them off the tee on time. Club captain Gordon Bell, his vice-captain Jack Skellern, and Derek Rhys Jones, the Colwood captain, were in charge of the scores.

The score recording, however, was done by Mrs. Pellow, wife of the president, and by Mrs. Bell. Within a few minutes of the last player turning in his card, the prize giving started. And that's how we got back into business!

SALE STARTS FIRST BUSINESS DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS

Most Canadians Will Greet Centenary at Home

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The "typical" Canadian will welcome Centennial Year at a friend's home.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that the demand for New Year's Eve reservations at night spots isn't up to the usual level, and the reason likely is that New Year's Day falls on a Sunday.

In most provinces public bars will close at or before midnight and in some provinces the night-spots themselves must close by midnight.

For those who do go out on the town the tab is likely to be steeper than ever despite the shorter hours.

Top fee is $50 a head at Montreal's Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

The fee will buy you a "luxury" dinner and allow you to be entertained by comedian Frank Fontaine and dance to the orchestra of Nick Martin. But drinks will be extra.

However, the majority of Montrealers will end up at a club or cabaret where the cover charge will be no more than $2 and the price of drinks modest.

Torontonians will pay $30 a couple to get into the Royal York Hotel's Imperial Room, where the dinner will cost an extra $8 to $12 a plate.

Ontario is one of the provinces where liquor laws have been relaxed slightly for the occasion. Drinks will be served until midnight instead of 11:30 p.m. and dancing will go on until 2 a.m. or later.

Robert Bonner, British Columbia's attorney-general, says he doubts police will enforce laws that require liquor outlets to close at midnight, provided they shut down by 2 a.m.

Vancouver's most expensive entertainment is $40 a couple at the rooftop room of the Vancouver Hotel. The average tab runs $2 to $15 a couple.

Sale of liquor at Alberta outlets will end at 11:30 p.m. The price of entertainment will run from $15 to $40 a person.

Most expensive place in Regina will be the Hotel Saskatchewan, at $25 a couple. Tickets are still available there and at other nightclubs where the price is $12.50 to $15 a couple.

The average charge at Winnipeg hotels and nightclubs will be $7 to $12.50 a person, and in Manitoba the bars will close at midnight. As in B.C. and Ontario, however, the nightspots will stay open for dining and three-quarters of the nightclubs are insisting on formal wear. Despite the requirement most have been booked solid for two weeks.

One thing will be true no matter where you go—police forces will be at full strength to check on the condition of celebrants who decide to drive home.

Thailand Threatened For Aiding U.S.

TOKYO (UPI)—The Viet Cong Tuesday threatened smashing retaliation against Thailand if it continues to support the United States in Vietnam. There are 33,000 U.S. troops and several air bases in Thailand.

The warning by the South Vietnamese Liberation Front charged the United States was "actively transforming Thailand into a base for expanding the war in southeast Asia."

It said if Thailand continued its "collusion with the U.S. imperialists" the South Vietnamese people "will take necessary measures to return well deserved counter blows."

The Viet Cong threat, broadcast by Radio Hanoi and monitored here, referred to a report by a U.S. television company that all American planes engaged in daily raids of North Vietnam had flown from five bases in Thailand.

Nick the Greek Dies

Biggest Gambler Cashes In His Chips

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Greek Orthodox service was held Tuesday night for Nicholas (Nick the Greek) Dandolos, the best-known gambler in U.S. history.

Dandolos died Sunday at Mt. Sinai Hospital of massive internal bleeding. Hospital records gave his age as 80.

The suave, soft-spoken gambler often claimed he had gone from rags to riches 73 times in his life. He once estimated he alternately had won and lost more than $500,000,000.

Dandolos said he made his first bet in 1911 at a horse track in Montreal and returned to Chicago at the end of the racing season with more than $1,000,000 in his pocket.

"It wasn't anything for me to win or lose $500,000 a night during the good years," he once said.

Born in Crete and educated in Turkey, Dandolos claimed for the past several years he was only 64 or 66.

The two things he would not discuss were his age and where he got the large amounts of money he gambled with. His gambling exploits were another matter, however.

He liked to tell of the times in the 1930s when he won $500,000 in one hand of five-card stud and lost $600,000 in another. Legend had it he walked into a high-class floating crap game in New York many years ago with $1,600-

000 and walked out 12 days later flat broke. Dandolos claimed to have coined the expression, "It's Only Money" in 1946 after losing heavily in a crap game. "If I win or lose $50,000 a night now it's a big night. And I used not to think anything about a half million. "I've never gambled to get rich. You can't do it that way. But people will never learn," he said.

Wrecker's Bash Stops Orbiting Car

Wheel of Misfortune

A capricious car had police officers running in circles Monday night before it was bashed into submission by a wrecking truck.

A runaway car sped in tight circles on Cook Street about 9:30 p.m. before a large gallery of spectators who watched as police tried to corral the vehicle, which was making about 20 knots.

Because of the speed it was impossible for traffic officers to board the machine and shut off its engine.

Police said the situation was dangerous because, if the wheels of the car had straightened out, it might have bowled into the crowd.

After a quick conference between the absentee driver and officers, a large wrecker from Victoria Super Service was called to the scene.

The wrecker was lined up with the runaway and at the proper moment the car was rammed in the rear. That stopped it.

Police said the car, operated by Mrs. Vince Roskelley, 2521 Cook, had been left in the driveway while its engine warmed up.

The car had jumped into reverse gear and rolled out of the driveway onto the street, climbed a curb and clipped a utility pole before circling in reverse.

Report Calls for New Centres

Saanich Arena Urgent Need

Half of Skaters From Saanich

Saanich, with a total population of 60,000, including 12,068 school-age youngsters, is totally dependent on neighboring municipalities for indoor recreational facilities, according to a 120-page recreation report handed down Tuesday.

Lack of facilities in both Saanich and Oak Bay is overtaxing those provided by Victoria and Esquimalt, the report says.

It will take about five years and $2,325,000 for Saanich to provide even the minimum facilities required by its present population.

With the population expected to increase to 100,000 by 1981, it will take 20 years and $4,500,000 before there are enough recreational facilities in the municipality.

FOLLOWED BRIEFS

The report was authorized by Saanich council last September, following some months of agitation and the receipt by council of several letters and letters asking for better recreational facilities.

It was prepared by the consulting engineering firm of A. B. Sanderson and Company. The report notes that standards of development to satisfy municipal needs have been set by the National Recreation Association and the Vancouver Board of Parks and Recreation.

OVER-ALL NEEDS

"If the standard proposed is met by Saanich, the over-all requirements for major facilities for Greater Victoria will also be satisfied," states the report.

"This report shows that there is a real shortage of skating and indoor swimming facilities in Greater Victoria and that this shortage directly affects Saanich residents.

INADEQUATE

"It has also been shown that facilities for the arts, crafts, and related activities are inadequate in the whole region, and practically non-existent in Saanich. Facilities for the elderly are similarly overtaxed," continues the report.

"In order to relieve this situation, it will be necessary for the municipalities of Greater Victoria to increase the available recreational facilities to a considerable degree.

LARGEST BURDEN

"Among these municipalities, the largest burden will fall on Saanich because of its large and growing population, and present lack of indoor recreational development."

The report recommends the development of three integrated community centres in Saanich, with a fourth to be built when future population warrants, plus about half the boys playing minor hockey in the Esquimalt and Victoria rinks are from Saanich, which does not have a single ice surface, according to the Saanich recreational report.

Three groups associated with minor hockey reported a total membership of more than 1,200 boys. About 600 of these were from Saanich, including 60 in the newly formed Saanich Hockey Association which could not be accepted by the other associations.

"If it can be assumed that 60 per cent of the Saanich boys now playing hockey in Victoria or Esquimalt could be drawn to a rink in Saanich, a league operating at about maximum desirable capacity could be formed," the report says.

This figure, the report points out, makes no allowance for the participation of boys who are at present discouraged by overcrowding, unattractive hours or transportation difficulties.

Esquimalt has a present population of fewer than 15,000 but its Civic Centre, built for a population of 50,000, is already operating to capacity.

This indicates that if the centre were open to municipal residents only, the pressure on Esquimalt's facilities would be reduced, and the same argument could be extended to cover other community facilities, the report says.

Saanich probably also has a latent unmet demand for facilities for recreational skating.

As a general rule, it is assumed that a population of up to 50,000 will be adequately served by one rink. Saanich's 60,000 have no rinks at all.

Public skating sessions at Victoria have always been crowded, and the building of Esquimalt arena, although it attracted large numbers of skaters, did not alter conditions at Victoria, indicating that there is a large demand for more rinks.

The Greater Victoria school system, and through it some 1,000 Saanich school children, will be one of the major users of the Crystal Garden pool in 1966/67.

During the summer parks program Saanich children were given 2,153 swimming sessions in the Victoria facilities.

Of 4,400 members of the Silver Threads Centre in Victoria, 770, or 17.3 per cent of the total membership, are from Saanich.

The report points out that although density of population has some bearing on the number of older people from any area attending the centre, the degree of participation is also directly related to the quality of the bus service.

Any new centre in Saanich should be built with this factor in mind, it says.

Two separate senior citizens' centres. The study favors the development of a number of smaller facilities rather than one big centre.

The first reason for this is the difficulty of providing the number of different facilities required by the municipality within one single centre.

If a single central centre was chosen and an arena built, it would be necessary by 1981 to build a duplicate arena alongside it. This would apply to any other facilities built at the centre.

Difficulties of access were also taken into consideration. By distributing facilities throughout the municipality the number of people within walking and easy driving distance of the buildings would be two or three times as great as for a single centre.

The "ultimate" development would be a duplicate arena alongside it. This would apply to any other facilities built at the centre.

The report proposes a three-month "bylaw promotion" period until March, followed by a one-month "waiting period," followed by tenders and design.

A start could be made on the Tillicum Park arena, Hampton Park senior citizens' centre, McRae Estate swimming pool and Tattersall Drive extension during 1967.

Annual expenditure for this development would be $350,000. Estimated cost of the first five proposed phases would be $2,300,000, including the provision for rising costs of labor and construction materials.

This includes Tillicum arena, $495,000; McRae pool, $305,000; McRae centre, $565,000; Tillicum centre, $594,000; Tillicum pool, $366,000.

of a community centre would include facilities for all major recreational activities — ice sports, swimming, arts, crafts and hobbies, gymnasium sports and social activities suitable for all age groups.

The report recommends immediate building of an arena, senior citizens' centre, two community centres and a swimming pool.

THREE AREAS

Tillicum park—part of municipal property at the Trans-Canada Highway and Burnside Road—is recommended for development, along with the McRae Estate in the Cedar Hill area, and the Lambrick Estate in Gordon Head.

"If immediate development of the complete centres is impossible, a phasing scheme should be adopted." The phases recommended are as follows:

● Arena, Tillicum Park.

● 25-metre pool, McRae Estate.

● Community Centre, McRae Estate.

● Community Centre, Tillicum Park.

● 25-metre pool, Tillicum Park.

● Community Centre, Lambrick Estate.

● 25-metre pool, Lambrick Estate.

● Future integrated community centre, North end, Saanich.

"Phases 1 to 5 would provide sufficient indoor recreational facilities to meet recommended standards for the present population of Saanich."

SENIOR CITIZENS The report also recommended that senior citizens' centres should be developed independent of community centres, and one should be built at Hampton Park, on Tillicum near Burnside, "as soon as possible."

The effectiveness of citizens' activities is proved in the priorities set by the study.

ARTS AND CRAFTS "The need for community centres providing gymnasium, arts and crafts, and general indoor recreational space is approximately equal between the south-eastern (McRae) and southwestern (Tillicum) areas," the report states.

"The choice of the higher priority for the southeastern centre was made as a result of representations of the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society.

HIGH PRIORITY "This group was the only body giving indication of strong regional demand, and it is felt that this is sufficient to justify a higher priority for a centre in the southeastern region."

"A change in these pressures or the growth of a strong representation from the southeast could be sufficient to alter the two priorities and give this centre precedence," continues the report.

McRAE ESTATE The site on the McRae Estate, to serve the Gordon Head and Cedar Hill areas is on the section north of the proposed route of Tattersall Drive.

This site will ultimately be near the population centre of the Cedar Hill region.

The site is recommended only if Tattersall Drive is extended during the 1966-1970 period, as proposed in the report on major road construction by the Saanich engineering department.

PART OF GOLF COURSE The site is a portion of the present Cedar Hill golf course, and the destruction of one recreational facility to provide another would be poor in principle, the report says.

However, the proposed extension would cut off this portion from the golf course, making it inevitable that the golf course would lose the land.

PROMOTION The report proposes a three-month "bylaw promotion" period until March, followed by a one-month "waiting period," followed by tenders and design.

A start could be made on the Tillicum Park arena, Hampton Park senior citizens' centre, McRae Estate swimming pool and Tattersall Drive extension during 1967.

ANNUALLY Annual expenditure for this development would be $350,000. Estimated cost of the first five proposed phases would be $2,300,000, including the provision for rising costs of labor and construction materials.

This includes Tillicum arena, $495,000; McRae pool, $305,000; McRae centre, $565,000; Tillicum centre, $594,000; Tillicum pool, $366,000.

Travel Time

Ferry Jam Worst

Homeward-bound holidayers lined up for as long as two hours Tuesday at the Swartz Bay and Tsaawwassen ferry terminals, creating the island's only major Christmas traffic problem.

Hourly sailings over the holiday period all but the last-minute rush home, spokesmen for B.C. Ferries said.

Air and bus lines were busy but carried their load, they reported.

TWO-HOUR WAIT

The ferry jam was worse at Swartz Bay than at mainland Tsaawwassen. By 7 p.m. Tuesday the ferries had fallen 1½ hours behind at Swartz Bay, giving everyone a wait of two hours.

The jam eased until the 10 p.m. sailing had only a two-thirds load, said a spokesman.

BACK TO NORMAL

Hourly sailings will continue this week except for Thursday and Sunday — New Year's Day — when the ferries will revert to normal two-hour winter scheduling.

All Canada put on extra flights and run at close to capacity. A spokesman said the concentrated pre-Christmas influx to the island was its worst problem. After that, demand levelled off.

FOG THREAT

Monday evening Air Canada passengers booked for eastern Canada on Tuesday flights were advised to go to Vancouver early because of the threat of fog at the Victoria airport.

Fog did appear, but was not thick enough to stop flights. Vancouver Island Coach Lines had extra runs to the mainland but handled its island traffic with regular service.

Cheque Theft Big One

Hot cheque artists could be in for writer's cramp as well as stiff sentences if they use loot taken from a city fuel company over the Christmas holiday.

Thieves ransacked the Ideal Fuel Co. offices at 2735 Bridge and took 2,700 blank company cheques, two personal insurance policies and three bottles of eye whiskey.

The company's name is on 1,500 of the cheques and another 1,200 bear the name Pacific B.C. Transport Ltd.

DOOR FORCED

The break-in was reported Monday morning, when police said entry was gained by forcing a door on the building's east side.

Lloyd's Hairstyle, 209 Menzies, was entered early Saturday and thieves made off with two wigs worth a total of $118, a lace semi-formal dress valued at $90, three dozen used hairbrushes and six dozen combs, and 10 hairpieces valued at $16 each.

A four-foot-long hope chest was reported stolen Saturday from a stairway at Standard Furniture's bargain basement, View and Douglas.

Car Plunges, Youth Unhurt

A 15-year-old Jordan River youth escaped injury shortly after 5 p.m. Monday when his car went out of control on the Sooke River Road, plunged over a 15-foot embankment and landed upright on top of a parked car. Both vehicles were heavily damaged, according to Sooke RCMP.

Rara Avis Counted Here

Almost 55,000 birds were counted Tuesday by 50 ardent bird watchers in and around Victoria.

The mammoth project, organized by the Victoria Natural History Society, has been an annual event since 1948.

Held in conjunction with bird counts in Alaska, other parts of Canada, Hawaii and mainland U.S., it will help fill a small part in the huge jigsaw puzzle of bird habits in North America.

Of the 127 species recorded, one had never been seen on Vancouver Island before.

Twenty Bohemian waxwings, rare visitors from the northern forests of Canada, were sighted in the 15-mile-diameter circle from Island View Bend to Goldstream Park and Warty's Lagoon.

Last year, 124 species were recorded.

Bird count organizer David

Stirling said the largest flock of birds sighted was one of 10,000 robins in the Highlands.

The count was conducted under rules of the Audubon Society of New York.

"The society specifies that the count be made for only 24 hours in a 15-mile area and for 10 days over the Christmas period," Mr. Stirling said.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who was afraid to have a baby could have been written by me. Maybe my story will give her courage.

After five years of marriage I discovered I was pregnant. I never wanted to have any children because I was terrified at the thought of pregnancy and delivery. My husband was thrilled when I told him the news and I thought to myself, "That's just like a man."

I had an excellent job as an executive secretary and decided to keep working as long as I felt good. Well, Ann, I worked until five days before the baby was born. I felt marvellous the whole time and was never happier.

The labor pains started when my husband was out playing golf. When the pains were four minutes apart I drove myself to the hospital and checked myself in. I left a note for my husband telling him where I was and to come when he got home. I read a little, dozed little and before I knew it I had a beautiful baby girl.

Of course there was a little discomfort, but it wasn't half as bad as I thought it would be. I could kick myself for having worried needlessly all those years. You may use me as an example to others if you wish. — LUCKY ME.

Dear You: You are a fine example — to a point. But I would not advise a woman whose labor pains are four minutes apart to drive herself to the hospital. Your signature is appropriate but do you realize how lucky you are? Next time, if your husband is playing golf, call a taxi.

Mrs. Carver President

Mrs. M. Carver was elected president of the Golden Age Club at the recent meeting held in the Jubilee Hall.

Other officers are Mrs. S. Hobday, vice-president; Mrs. W. Strawn, secretary; Mrs. B. Auster, treasurer.

Conveners are Mrs. C. Stringer, Mrs. D. Hutchison, Mrs. Strawn, Mrs. J. Bryant, Mrs. A. McVie, Mrs. R. Culverwell and Miss E. Elliot.

Dear Ann Landers: I was very disappointed when you told the 14-year-old girl that she owed an apology to the 40-year-old man who greeted her with "Hi, Beautiful." She answered, "Hello, Ugly."

We have a daughter the same age and I had better not catch her in that manner. Old geezers who get chummy with young girls should be told off. I can't understand your putting down the girl instead of the fresh-mouthed man.

I have a hunch you were on vacation and one of your assistants wrote that answer. Right? — X-RAY EYES.

Dear Eyes. When I take a vacation the answers are prepared before I leave town. Every word that appears under my byline is written by me.

Sorry, Lady, but I still feel that the girl was rude. A 40-year-old man who says "Hi, Beautiful" to a teen-ager is not necessarily a dirty old man.

Laughton-Smith

Fashions Own Wedding Gown

A pretty wedding was solemnized in First United Church yesterday afternoon (Dec. 27) when Miss Donna Margaret Smith became the bride of Mr. Donald Peter Laughton of Vancouver.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Smith of 1315 Carnes Street, Victoria, and the son of Mrs. Harold P. Laughton of North Surrey, and the late Mr. Laughton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in an afternoon-length sheath of white crepe fashioned with three-quarter sleeves, and made by herself. She chose a matching rose tulle headpiece with chapel veil, white peau de soie shoes and carried white spray chrysanthemums and pink roses.

Mrs. George Lamb, the groom's sister, who comes from Aldergrove, was matron of honor. She wore a pink wool suit and matching hat and carried a colonial bouquet of white spray chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert T. Smith, the bride's brother, was best man. At the reception held for the family in the home of the bride's parents, pink tulle surrounded the lovely wedding cake made by Mrs. Smith. A toast was given by Mr. R. C. Smith, uncle of the bride.

For going away the new Mrs. Laughton changed into a beige wool dress with matching wool and mohair coat, also made by herself. She pinned an orchid corsage on her costume.

On returning from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Laughton will live in Vancouver, where the groom is studying law at UBC.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. H. P. Laughton, North Surrey; Mr. J. M. Robertson of Shawnigan Lake, Kamloops.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lamb of Aldergrove, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Main, Coquitlam; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, Mrv and Mrs. R. C. Smith, Miss Barbara McFarlane of Vancouver, Mrs. K. Disney of Crescent Beach, Mr. T. J. Smith of Seattle and Mr. W. Martin and Deborah of Kamloops.

White House Daughters Reminisce in Magazine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two White House daughters — Lynda Bird Johnson and Margaret Truman Daniel — reminisced in print this week on different aspects of being presidential offspring.

Writing a signed article for McCall's magazine for the first time since she joined its staff, Miss Johnson admitted that she was something of a college drudge — "All books and no social life" because most of her social life and extra-curricular activities were off-campus.

Mrs. Daniel, wife of a New York Times managing editor, Clifton Daniel, and mother of four boys, disclosed that president Truman's experience with children "is not enormous" and that she herself, an only child, grew up in a household of adults and was always treated like one.

"My father is apt to extend this same courtesy to his grandsons, which makes him very popular with them but also puts them a little in awe of him," she wrote. "I find this useful, since they are not in awe of much else."

Mrs. Daniel also told of a visit to the White House soon after President Johnson's inauguration when her nine-year-old son, Clifton Truman Daniel, asked her, "Mama, why does the president talk like a cowboy?" She said she was at a loss for an answer until her husband replied "The president talks like a cowboy because he comes from cowboy country."

President Johnson's elder daughter, who graduated from the University of Texas last spring, said in her article she spent most of her four years in college "worrying about grades and the time that remained studying for them."

Broker's Death Snaps Link With Pioneers

Last Concert For Year Slated Today

The last Wednesday concert for 1966 for Victoria's senior citizens will be held at 1:30 p.m. today, concert director and arranger Don Gray said Tuesday.

The concert will be held in the Senior Citizen's Activity Centre, Centennial Square, and the "usual singsong" will be conducted by Louise MacDonald.

Mr. Gray said the concert would also feature the St. Mary's Girls' choir, the Adeline Duncan Scottish Dancers and teenagers from the Musical Arts Association presenting musical solos.

Victoria lost a link with its early pioneering history with the death of Christmas Day of Charles Ernest Brown, 73.

Mr. Brown was born in Victoria Feb. 3, 1893, the youngest of nine children.

His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Brown, were among the early pioneering families which built Victoria.

FATHER'S OFFICE

Educated in Victoria, Mr. Brown was first employed in his father's office, where he became interested in investment, a business which he loved and made his life.

At 21, and at the outbreak of the First World War, he joined the 89th Victoria Fusiliers, which later received recognition as the 7th Canadian Infantry Battalion, CEF.

INVALIDED OUT

When invalided out of the service in 1919, Mr. Brown held the rank of lieutenant in the Royal Berkshire Regiment.

In 1936 he opened his own investment business in Victoria, the Island Investment Co., and later became manager of the bond department of Boursman Investments.

FUNERAL THURSDAY

Funeral services for Mr. Brown, a former president of the Pacific Club and vice-president of the Rotary Club, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Hayward's Chapel.

He is survived by his wife, Matilda, 928 West Saanich Road, and a son and daughter by a previous marriage.

They are Charles M. Brown of Victoria and Mrs. Ann Scereton of Maple Bay.

New Quarterly Appears Here

Three poems by a 19-year-old University of Victoria physics student have been included in the first issue of the Malahat Review, "an international quarterly of life and letters."

The magazine, edited by Robin Skelton and John Peter of the University of Victoria's English department, will mark the start of Canada's centennial year.

LAWRENCE LETTERS

The poems of David Summers, 1744 Haultain, appear in the 151-page first edition alongside the work of a cosmopolitan group of authors including D. H. Lawrence, some of whose letters are published for the first time.

A second-year student, Mr.

Summers says he writes poetry only as a hobby.

Mr. Skelton said the Malahat Review won't be a vehicle mainly for Victoria writers, but for "good writers everywhere."

REASON WHY

Mr. Summers was included "because he's a good poet," said Mr. Skelton.

The Review will be circulated in Canada, the U.S. and U.K., New Zealand, Australia, India, Latin America and Ireland.

Backed by the University of Victoria, the magazine is assured of continuing publication, though donations are welcome for "extras" like color printing.

POLISH WRITER

The first issue includes work by Maria Kunowicz, a Polish writer who spent some time in Victoria in the fall of 1965 working on a novel. There are also D. H. Lawrence's letters to a Russian literary translator and an "atlas of poetry" ranging from the U.S. through Pakistan to the Philippines.

"We are proud to have launched our contribution to international understanding at this time and in this way," said Mr. Skelton in his foreword.

U.S. Pullout Urged By Pakistan

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Pakistan Foreign Minister Shaukat Pirsada said Tuesday in Pakistan's opinion American troops must pull out of Vietnam.

The minister met Monday night with Shah Mohammed Reza and government leaders.

A spokesman asked why Pakistan, as an ally of the United States, had not tried to mediate in the Vietnam war.

"What ally?" Pirsada asked. "Have you forgotten the events of September last year which culminated in the war with India?"

"If the United States could not support us against India we could not mediate to end the Vietnam fighting."

Mercantile Bank Issue Strains U.S. Relations

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the U.S. appear to be on a collision course in the Mercantile Bank issue.

It remains to be seen how serious it could be. There is speculation that the strongly-expressed views of the U.S. state department may not be matched elsewhere. Some observers suggest that the treasury department is disinterested.

REMAIN ADAMANT
But the state department appears adamant.

It says legislation still before a Commons committee in Ottawa is retroactive discrimination in proposing to limit the activities of the Canadian chartered bank purchased three years ago by the powerful First National City Bank of New York.

NOT MUCH FUSS

It is stated privately that the state department would feel the same way even in the event that First National City Bank sought to dampen the situation, which as usual in bilateral issues has aroused far more public reaction in Canada than here.

The state department refuses suggestions that former finance minister Walter Gordon was justified in proceeding with the Canadian restrictions because he warned the U.S. purchasers in advance that they might face restrictions.

NO RESTRICTIONS

It is argued that Gordon did not necessarily speak for the whole cabinet and that, in any event, the purchase was made at a time when the laws contained no restrictions.

Officials here say the new Congress may decide to proceed with legislation applying federal controls for the first time to foreign banks, heretofore regulated by the 50 states. Foreign banks are banned in 45 of those states.

CENTRE IN NEW YORK

Officials say the federal control might crack down on Canadian banking activity in the U.S. that is centred in New York State. There, Canadian banks also are restricted but do a specialized and profitable lending business which is acknowledged to be of some service to the New York money market.

In any event, the word retaliation has crept into the bilateral dialogue for the first time since 1963.

That year, U.S. anger erupted when the Canadian wheat board trimmed prices to nail down some substantial future wheat contracts with Japan and other countries. This was at a time when the U.S. was counting on rising prices to unload some of its surplus at more profit.

The Canada-U.S. machinery for consultation wheat prices broke down and has not regained the same intimacy, but that doesn't appear to have hurt either country.

Some suggest here that the day is gone, if it ever existed, that the U.S. would impose deliberately across-the-board retaliation against Canada.

President Johnson, signing the compromise auto-production agreement last year, referred to the hazards of "stroke and counter-stroke."

The two economies appear to be too enmeshed for either country to apply retaliation without being in danger of hurting themselves.

Each is the other's best market—and the big U.S. trade and payments surplus from Canada is vital as the country battles its own gold-and-dollar drain.

If the treasury department is disinterested in the state department's criticism of the Mercantile Bank legislation, it may be due to this fact.

In the first three quarters of 1966, as France was taking $600,000,000 worth of gold from the dwindling U.S. reserves, Canada sold the U.S. $200,000,000 from its stocks.

Fast Half Over

Students huddle in cold at Ottawa Tuesday morning as they neared half-way mark in their 200-hour fast intended to draw public attention to suffering in Vietnam. They are also collecting contributions for Canadian Friends Service Committee fund to provide medical aid for Vietnamese civilians. — (CP)

Extra Grain Given Millions

NEW DELHI (AP) — About 19,000,000 persons in the worst affected areas of drought-stricken Bihar State in eastern India will have their grain rations increased to eight ounces a day from six beginning Jan. 1, the government announced Tuesday.

The decision was taken by a special Bihar relief committee, comprising government officials including Food Minister Chidambaram Subramanian. It followed by five days an announcement that the United States would make an emergency shipment of 900,000 tons of grain and Russia 200,000.

No mention was made in the announcement of foreign aid but officials had said earlier rations could not be increased unless emergency shipments were received. Persons in some areas of Bihar have had to live on only four ounces of grain a day at times.

North, South, Viet Cong Aided by $1,000 Gift

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight students fasting on the capital's shopping mall say they have convinced one person to send $1,000 to a fund for medical aid to Vietnam.

The fasters hope to draw attention to suffering in Vietnam by their 200-hour tea-and-coffee diet due to end at midnight New Year's Eve.

They are asking passers-by to send donations to the Canadian Friends Service Committee, which supports medical aid for all parties involved in the Vietnam fighting.

The students are not collecting donations, merely urging people to make them. They declined to identify the donor of the $1,000.

The eight started their fast at 4 p.m. last Friday. They appear in six-hour shifts at their downtown demonstration point.

Spellman Not Budging

SAIGON (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman said Tuesday he stands on his statement that anything less than an allied victory in Vietnam is inconceivable.

The statement and others have provoked broadsides against him from Soviet commentators and from North Vietnam. The Communists have accused him of contradicting the words of Pope Paul, who appealed in a Christmas message for a "miracle of peace."

VATICAN UPSET
Cardinal Spellman's statements in a Christmas Eve sermon in Saigon were reported to have upset Vatican circles. Unofficial Vatican sources said the declarations seemed to be out of keeping with the efforts of Pope Paul to encourage a negotiated end to the war in Vietnam.

NOT CHANGING
The Cardinal was told after his return to Saigon Tuesday of Communist accusations against his remarks, and he replied: "Whatever I said, I stand by it."

Cardinal Spellman, in his sermon, called the Vietnam conflict a "war for civilization." He continued: "We do hope and pray . . . we shall soon have the victory for which all of us in Vietnam and all over the world are praying and hoping, for less than victory is inconceivable."

It Ain't Necessarily So

Temperature sign on billboard near centre of Philadelphia seems to have been confused by big Christmas Eve snowstorm as it reads temperature of 80 degrees while motorists in background still dodge huge snowdrifts.

With high temperature for day of just above freezing many side streets and area secondary roads remain closed as wind continues to whip Saturday's 12-inch snowfall into drifts. — (AP)

On Angola Border

300 Congo Rebels Slain

TEIXEIRA DE SOUSA, Angola (AP) — More than 300 of a 500-man rebel force were killed Christmas Day when they crossed from the Congo and attacked this town on Angola's eastern border, Portuguese military authorities said Tuesday.

Portugal closed the Angola-Congo border this month after rebels killed 25 soldiers in a mortar and machine-gun ambush near the frontier.

Authorities said five settlers and a police officer were killed in the Christmas attack during which the rebels sacked several houses and assaulted an army barracks. The rebels were said to have used rifles, swords and bows and arrows.

This town of fewer than 1,000 persons is a main stop on the British-owned Benguela railway over which the Congo exports more than 70 per cent of its copper ore. Portuguese authorities have threatened to halt the ore movement in reprisal for raids by rebels who hit and ran back across the border.

Section of the railway near the border was reported destroyed during the attack Sunday.

Experts Examine Island Relics

Relics of the Spaniards' stay at Friendly Cove — plus clues to older inhabitants — are being examined in Ottawa by archaeologists of the Canadian Historic Sites Division.

Etched glass, pottery shards and fragments of an olive jar were among the finds on tiny San Miguel Island off Friendly Cove, which is on Nootka Island, 165 miles northwest of Victoria.

Discovered in 1774, by Juan Perez, a California Spaniard, the spot was occupied by English fur traders in 1788 and seized by the Spaniards the following year.

Spain maintained a garrison at Friendly Cove until 1795, when the fort was dismantled after the northwest coast was ceded to Great Britain.

Visible evidence of the fort has long since been obliterated.

While excavating the site, the archaeologists also recovered bone and stone implements used for fishing and hunting.

They recorded one Indian song describing the Spanish occupation.

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, said Tuesday he hopes some of the relics will be turned over to the Provincial Museum.

Paratroopers

Assault Starts In Delta

SAIGON (UPI) — Hundreds of Vietnamese paratroopers, jumping into battle with their American advisers, launched the most massive airborne assault of the war deep in the Mekong delta, a government spokesman announced Wednesday.

The operation may be a prelude to American troops moving into the rice-rich delta region in force for the first time, informed observers said.

Announcement of the airborne assault came after Communist troops, attacking into point-blank 105 MM artillery fire Tuesday, overran and inflicted "heavy" casualties on a U.S. artillery unit in the first such action of the war. The outnumbered defenders drove the Communists back in savage hand to hand fighting in a northern coastal area.

In the airborne assault, a multi-battalion force of paratroopers floated down on the fringe of a forest sanctuary of hard-core main force Viet Cong troops, about 170 miles southwest of Saigon. At the same time, Vietnamese Rangers and regular troops made helicopter assaults into rice paddy landing zones.

The operation began early Tuesday morning but was not announced until Wednesday for security reasons.

FIRE FIGHTS

The airborne units ran into immediate fire fights with Viet Cong forces in a number of skirmishes. A spokesman said 29 Viet Cong were killed, four captured and six suspects detained for questioning.

In the fighting in the north, the Communist force was estimated at 1,200 men. Intelligence sources said it was one of several major units reinforced, supplied and positioned for an offensive during the 48-hour Christmas truce.

TONS OF BOMBS

UPI correspondent Alvin Webb was aboard one of the 33 transport planes that flew 1,200 Vietnamese paratroopers into the Mekong Delta battle. He reported that U.S. B-57 Canberras, F-4 Crusaders and F-100 Super Sabres hammered the area with hundreds of tons of bombs and flaming napalm to soften it up before the paratroopers swarmed out of the planes.

So far, there has been no firm word from American officials about U.S. troops moving a fighting force into the delta for the first time. But it has been expected for months and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky said recently that Americans would be in the delta around the first of the year.

MASSIVE ASSAULT

There was speculation that the massive assault on the fringe of the U Minh forest, which has been a Viet Cong stronghold for many years, may be the beginning to such an American move.

In other action reported Wednesday air force fighter-bombers hammered three North Vietnamese concentrations and storage facilities in the demilitarized zone and two more just north of the zone where intelligence reports indicated the Communists had moved en masse during the Christmas cease-fire.

BAD WEATHER

Bad weather limited American strike and armed reconnaissance missions over most of the rest of North Vietnam Tuesday, the military spokesman reported. There was no significant ground action reported over the rest of the country Wednesday.

China Denies Steel Deal

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China has officially denied reports it had sold steel to the U.S. for military construction in Vietnam as "out-and-out lie and slander" instigated by the Soviet Union.

The London Observer had reported from Singapore that the U.S. bought more than $1,000,000 worth of steel — several thousand tons — through intermediaries in Hong Kong.

Six in Ricochet Car Race by Ambulance To Victoria Lost as Girl Dies

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Highway Patrolman F. B. Harper watched in horror Monday night as a car, its driver unconscious, careened down an incline on the 190-foot high Cooper River bridge.

The car wobbled from side to side of the two-miles-long bridge, hanging into supports on either side. As it reached the end of the span, slowed by repeated sideswipes, Harper leaped into the car and stopped it.

Harper found not only the driver unconscious, but three other men and two women—all out cold. All six were booked on drunk charges.

Winner Lasts Past Hour In Nanaimo Polar Swim

NANAIMO — Streets were packed for three blocks from shore Monday by cars carrying the throngs who came to see the annual polar bear swim.

Swimmers collecting a dollar for their troubles from Frank Ney, sponsor of the event, numbered 347.

Ice supplied by Pete Maffeo floated among them, lowering the already cold, 38-degree temperature.

The youngest to enter, to ankle level, was Linda Coulter, 1. The youngest to dunk was Gay Fisher, 5, and Reid Thornburn, 8, was the youngest to actually swim — five strokes.

George White, 65, the eldest

Winner Ian Taylor, 14, hardly able to stand and walking with help only, arrived at the stand for his dollar after being in the water for 65½ minutes.

He was massaged, filled with hot coffee and wrapped in woolen blankets by St. John Ambulance people in an attempt to bring him back to normal.

After about a half-hour attempt, they took him to Nanaimo General Hospital, where he received treatment and was released.

Only a half minute behind him was Gail Vogan, 12, who responded to the ministrations of St. John members.

Mr. Ney was worried about the welfare of those who had stayed in the water too long.

"We don't want them to stay in too long — I started calling them in after only 20 minutes," he said.

He said he is definitely against endurance dunking, and said there is no special recognition for it.

After all the swimmers were presented with their dollars, and all the bananas on hand had been thrown to spectators, a short cricket match followed.

Mao's Foes Face Arrest

TOKYO (AP) — A rally of 100,000 Red Guards in Peking Tuesday denounced Premier Liu Shao-chi and the "Khrushchev of China" and the "boss of capitalism," Japanese reports from China's capital said. Also denounced was his chief associate in the struggle for power, Teng Hsiao-ping, secretary-general of the Chinese Communist party.

The Tanjug news agency of Yugoslavia has said these two men, once among the most powerful in China, may be arrested soon. Liu once was party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's political heir, a position now held by Defence Minister Lin Biao. Mao and Lin are believed to consider Liu and Teng their strongest foes.

B.C. Woods Output Passes Billion Mark

Despite falling lumber prices in the past three months, the B.C. forest industry had a record year during 1966, the provincial bureau of economics and statistics said today.

In a summary of 1966 economic activity in B.C., the bureau said the net value of forestry production is expected to reach $1,037,000,000, "the first time that net value has exceeded the billion dollar mark."

LOGGING SECOND

"New capital investment in the forest industries during 1966 totalled an estimated $311,000,000. The pulp and paper industry led the list with $220,000,000, followed by logging at $57,000,000."

The record expenditure surpassed 1964 figures by 25 per cent. B.C. sulphate (kraft) pulp capacity increased by 710,000 tons (19 per cent) a year and kraft paper capacity increased by 185,000 tons (nine per cent) a year during 1966.

FURTHER CAPACITY

"Projects currently underway and valued at approximately $270,000,000 will add a further $30,000 tons to the annual pulp capacity and 280,000 tons to newsprint capacity in the period 1967-68," the summary noted.

Total B.C. log production is expected to reach 1,568,000,000 cubic feet, up 2.3 per cent from the 1965 record cut. All forest districts but Kamloops reported higher cuts during the first three-quarters of the year.

INCREASE LIKELY

"Considering declining lumber markets and the resultant over-supply of logs on the Vancouver log market during the latter part of the year, it is anticipated that by Dec. 31 coastal log production will have increased by 3.7 per cent and the interior by less than one per cent."

"This will be the second year in a row where the trend toward increased reliance upon interior production has been reversed."

B.C. lumber production was expected to increase by more than 1.5 per cent to 7,050,000,000 f.b.m. and B.C. plywood production rose "slightly less than seven per cent" to 1,725,000,000 square feet.

IMPORTS RISE

Overseas markets for B.C. forest products increased. Lumber sales to the U.S. "should approximate those of 1965." The United Kingdom, which takes three-quarters of B.C. plywood exports, increased her imports by five per cent and the European economic community in-

Fishing Value Highest

The B.C. fishing industry had a record year supported by good catches and high prices, the provincial bureau of economics and statistics reported today.

In the bureau's economic review of the province during 1966, value of landings are estimated at $57,500,000, plus the addition of halibut landings by B.C. fishermen in the U.S. totalling $2,813,000.

PREVIOUS RECORD

The landed value "exceeds the 1965 total of $45,824,000 by 25 per cent, and the previous record of $32,053,000 in 1958 by 10 per cent," the report stated.

"The total market value of fish and fish products is estimated at $112,000,000, an increase of 22 per cent over 1965 and 14 per cent over the previous record of $98,485,000 in 1958."

The report noted that "the resurgence of the fishing industry from the poor season of 1965 is reflected in a far more equitable distribution of the catch as between species, area, and type of gear."

HEAVIER RUNS

"Ocho and chinook (spring) salmon landings are very high and sockeye, pink and chum salmon runs are heavier than those recorded last year."

"Exports of fish products through B.C. ports declined during 1966, primarily as a result of the below-average catch of 1965," the report said.

"Exports of fish products in 1967 will reflect the record catch enjoyed by the industry this year."

Traffic Charge

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Gary Lee Maddes, about 25, of Vancouver, has been charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, following a double traffic fatality.

Much More Cash for Farmers

Farm cash receipts to B.C. farmers totalled an estimated $185,560,000, an increase of 15 per cent compared with 1965, the provincial bureau of economics and statistics reported today.

The bureau said "the resurgence of the B.C. agricultural production to an all-time high."

Shipments of cattle went up by more than six per cent while beef supplies were smaller than 1965 and prices firmer. Hog production rose while shipments, slaughters and prices dropped steadily. Sheep and lamb stocks experienced a further decline.

The summary also noted that "projections of world paper and paper-board consumption continue to be revised upward."

and the slaughter of turkeys rose a solid 30 per cent. Net egg production went up four per cent and the average price to producers was 9.6 per cent higher, or three cents a dozen, on firmer markets.

Total milk production in 1966 increased by an estimated four per cent to 879,500,000 pounds. Fluid milk sales (57 per cent of production) rose 3.5 per cent. Farm cash receipts from milk sales increased nearly 13 per cent.

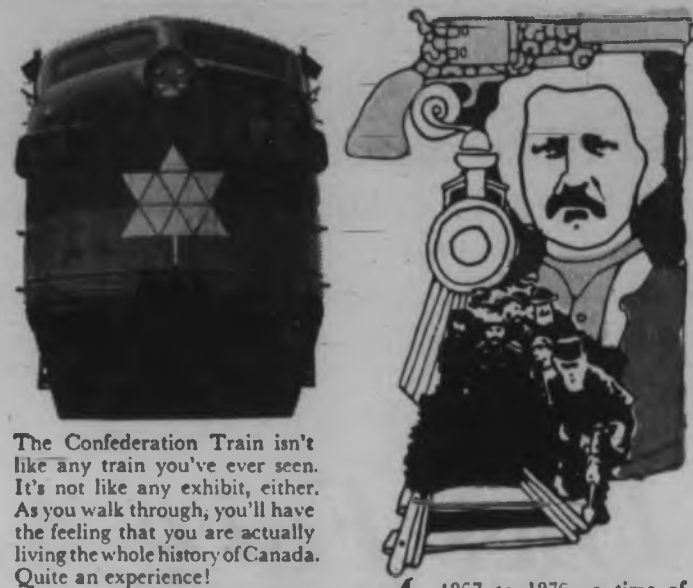

The summary also noted that "returns to dairy farmers are significantly higher than the Canadian average for all major product classes."

The B.C. tree fruit industry showed a "substantial recovery from last year's abnormally low production levels. In contrast to the disastrously low temperatures of 1964-65, last winter's good snow cover and milder temperatures favored bud survival."

The apple crop is expected to be up 20 per cent with prices firmer, while the pear crop was six times that of 1965 and the loganberry and cranberry output was up and Okanagan grapes made a strong recovery. Peach and apricot production was near normal, blueberry, 38 Baku Colonist, Victoria Wednesday, Dec. 28, 1966

The Confederation Train isn't like any train you've ever seen. It's not like any exhibit, either. As you walk through, you'll have the feeling that you are actually living the whole history of Canada. Quite an experience!

1. In the first exhibition car, you go right back to the creation of the Continent—walk through a primeval forest and hear the sounds of life that existed millions of years ago. Then you see how the ice age came crashing down, changing and shaping our country. This is how Canada was formed—and you'll see it happening!

2. Have you ever wondered how it must have been to be an early explorer of Canada? These men were real adventurers! Here, you realize, perhaps for the first time, the tremendous magnitude of their explorations. Then came the settlers, and you share their discomfort and dreams as they cross the ocean in the hold of an immigrant ship.

3. Now you discover, as the early settlers did, that life in the New World was not quite what you'd been led to believe. The difficulties were numerous. You begin to appreciate how much Confederation meant to Canadians as you move from the confusion of settlement life into the stillness of the Confederation Chamber.

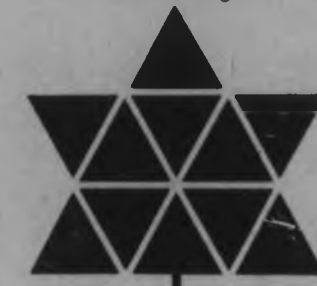

4. 1867 to 1876—a time of temperamental outbursts, changing ideas and enormous progress. You share the excitement as Canada becomes a continent bordered by three oceans... live through the Riel Rebellion... the completion of the rail line to the Pacific... the Klondike rush... the often stormy elections of the five Prime Ministers of those times. Canada was growing up.

5. The coming of the twentieth century—the Boer War—a flood of immigrants from Eastern Europe—and you experience the frightening din of trench warfare as seen from a dugout in World War I. The twenties roar in with flappers, peep shows, player pianos and a Mack Sennett movie. Suddenly, the stock crash—the bleakness of the thirties ending, in 1939, with newspapers proclaiming "Canada at War with Germany!"

6. The second world war—Canada begins producing warplanes, tanks and ships while her heroes fight and die abroad. Prime Minister Mackenzie King announces the war's end. Now Canadians turn anew to science, politics, medicine, industry, the arts and international affairs. Our achievements in these fields give every indication that our greatest era is about to begin...

Hard Work Secret To Longevity

A Christmas baby was born in Gloucester 103 years ago and now living in Victoria, is still hale and hearty.

Mrs. Sarah Marshall celebrated her 103rd birthday on Christmas Day at the Matson Lodge Salvation Army home at Esquimalt.

She offers hard work as the best recipe for life, and during her lifetime she has made use of that recipe.

U.S. CIVIL WAR

Her long life began in the year the American Civil War started, and she came to Victoria, in 1906.

For four years she lived in California, and she also managed Marshall's Cafe at Qualicum Beach for several years.

As well as her cafe experience she could give any farm-hand a few pointers. While living on a farm she used to plow and harrow, and she also did the milking.

MARRIED AT 44

At the age of 44 she married James Marshall in Victoria. Her husband died 35 years ago, and there were no children.

Mrs. Marshall, who was in San Francisco during the 1924 earthquake, saw Queen Victoria in London before she left England.

GIVES UP TRIPS

She is still mentally and physically agile, although during the last year she has given up the solo trips she used to make into town.

She still sews and knits a good deal, and on Christmas Day she had a special birthday-Christmas cake.

Several Scout Units Leaderless In Greater Victoria

Career Ends

Forest insect fighter for 41 years, William G. Mathers has retired from Victoria's federal Forest Research Laboratory. Mr. Mathers, 1039 St. David, began his career combating bark beetle infestations in Interior in 1926. He is succeeded as entomologist at the laboratory by Arthur Westerbly.

Play It Safe

Rangers Make Film

When South Vancouver Island Rangers ask British Columbians this year to play it safe with firearms, or other explosives found in coastal areas, residents of the province can consider the caution comes from men who know.

The Rangers are comprised of a group of 100 men who, during the Second World War, were Company No. 1, Pacific Coast Militia Rangers.

After the war, the men bought their wartime rifle range, Luxton Range, and retained it as a shooting range.

Together with the B.C. government the Rangers have made the firearm's safety film Play It Safe.

Earlier this month turkey shoots on the range, off Luxton Road in Happy Valley, earned enough to donate substantially to the Colonist 500 Fund for needy area families.

Prints of the safety film are available for showing, free of charge, from the Rangers through Box 341, Victoria.

Although the Scouting movement in Greater Victoria "isn't falling apart," there is still an urgent need for leaders, according to Jack Scrivener, district executive.

Several Scout and Club packs have been without leaders for months, and there is also a shortage of assistants in many troops, he said.

OFF THE ROLLS

One troop, the 2nd Fort Victoria, is off the rolls at Scout headquarters because it hasn't a leader. Work was carried on for some time by Rover Scouts, Boys aged between 16 and 21, but many could not divide their time between Scouting and university study.

Mr. Scrivener said most Scout leaders, 20 per cent of whom are navy men and are constantly being transferred, only stay two years.

MOST LEAVE

"There are the mainstays, the ones with 10 or even 15 years' service, but most leave after two years," he said.

And the problem is getting worse.

There are 3,800 Scouts of all ages in Greater Victoria and only 400 leaders. Membership in the past three years has grown by four per cent in ratio to the previous year.

EIGHT REGIONS

Half of the boys eligible for Wolf Cubs in Greater Victoria, between the ages of 8 and 11, are members—a percentage of 52.8 and one of the highest in the eight B.C. Scout regions.

"We badly want young, dedicated men for leaders and assistants. But it's no good if a person isn't really serious in wanting to help youth," he said.

FAIRFIELD AREA

One of the most acute shortages is in the Fairfield area, where families and family men have shifted and apartment-dwellers and retired folk have taken their place, he said.

The problem will be one of the major topics to be discussed Jan. 13, 14 and 15 when Victoria is host to the annual B.C. professional staff conference for the first time.

Cosmopolitans Give Bus To Island MS Society

The Victoria and Vancouver Islands Multiple Sclerosis Society is the proud owner of a new bus, after receiving the keys at a Christmas party.

Mrs. Elise Fielding, who donated the bus through the Victoria Cosmopolitan International Service Club, made the presentation at a dinner held by the club.

The bus will be turned over at a dedication early in the New Year. At the moment, it is undergoing alterations at Yarrow.

The M.S. society had 250 people at its annual Christmas dinner in Metropolitan United Church.

Music for the evening was provided by a volunteer group. The Mods, four boys from 9 to 11 years old, led by Benny Caspersen.

Members of the group were Steve Bordin, drums and Ross Fairfield and Steve Pearks, guitars.

President W. H. Phillips welcomed the guests and Rev. Charles McGillivray gave the Christmas message.

Special gifts were given to retiring M.S. executive secretary Mrs. Evelyn Lamont and the guests received presents.

In addition to the Mods, Ron Berod, Pat Wicks and Lance Stevenson entertained.

Rash of Birdies Gives Swetnam Colonist Honors

A run of four birdies guided Keith Swetnam to success in the men's low gross honors in the Daily Colonist Christmas Tree golf tournament at the Uplands course Monday.

Playing his home course skilfully, Swetnam birdied the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th to finish with a one-over par 71.

HIGLOW THIRD

George Higlow, a three-time winner of the tournament that has been washed out by bad weather the last two years, had a gross 80.

Uplands golfers dominated the tournament, the only one played in Canada during Christmas.

LOW NET

John Furman won the low net with a 75-8-67. Roger Bishop won the section for golfers with handicaps between 0 and 7 with a net 68. Jim Reade won the 8-10 golfers with a net 71 and Maureen Hiberson won the women's low gross with a 83.

Swetnam, runner-up in his club's championship, covered the front nine in four-over 39, the same as the challenging Painter.

THREE UNDER PAR

Despite a bogey on 18, he finished with a three-under 32 as Painter shot a 34.

Also on the birdie trail was Roger Bishop of Uplands who shot four on the back nine to finish with a 74 gross.

Secures Her Future

Dennis Ralston relaxes in his Bakersfield, Calif., home with his nine-month-old daughter, Angela Denise, yesterday after signing a three-year professional tennis contract reportedly calling for $100,000. Ralston, 24, was the No. 1 ranked U.S. amateur player.

Tourists Missed By Russian Fans

MOSCOW (CP) — Some Soviet sports writers are charged that a one-month hole has been punched in the schedule of Russia's best hockey league because of playing commitments in Canada.

CAHA Secretary Advocates Two Tournaments Each Year

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Two international hockey tournaments involving Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden should be staged every season, Gordon Jukes of Melville said Tuesday.

Jukes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the tournaments would help prevent one-sided defeats such as those administered in Newfoundland by the touring Russian national team.

NO OPPOSITION

"It is just about impossible for us to provide good games for selected or national teams from Russia, Czechoslovakia or Sweden unless we put together an all-star team or use our national team," Jukes said in a telephone interview.

"Canadian club teams aren't strong enough any more to meet top European teams on even terms."

HAD SHORT NOTICE

"If hometown people want to see their own teams play against European competition, we'll schedule games with the West Germans, for example, or Polish or Finnish national teams."

Jukes said the four games scheduled for the Russians in the Maritimes were set up on short notice after Russia withdrew from the annual Walter Brown tournament at Colorado Springs.

"We were virtually forced to give the Russians three games to replace the ones they weren't going to play in the United States. We already had scheduled six games in Canada—three against our national team and three in our international tournament at Winnipeg."

"We scheduled the games in the Maritimes because the Russian national team hasn't been seen there previously. If we thought about it, we'd have realized the games wouldn't be close—but I didn't think the scores would be more than 11-1 or 11-2."

Two days before Christmas, the No. 1 national team left for another nine-game stint in Canada, including three games at PCH.

"The two teams are made up of the best players on the three top teams in Russia's best league—Army, Spartak and Dynamo. The resulting hiatus in the schedule is referred to somewhat sarcastically as the 'winter holidays' by a writer in Pravda, organ of the Russian Communist party."

Under the headline, "Hockey leaves the country," the newspaper concedes that a Canadian tournament is "an excellent hockey school—if not an academy—for our young players as well as our venerable players."

"Granted that, however, it is impossible to view indifferently the annual export of our best hockey across the ocean for a whole month. . . . For millions of lovers of this game in this country, hockey-less, winter holidays ensue until the middle of January."

A note of disappointment is also evident in references by other newspapers to the schedule interruption, including the government organ Izvestia and Vechernyaya Moskva (Evening Moscow).

Jukes said the CAHA decided not to schedule the national team in Western Canada because the Moscow Selects already had played in the west. The Czech national team was scheduled for three games in Ontario.

The proposal that two international tournaments should be held each year on a rotating basis depends upon the ability of Canada to find a national B team, Jukes said.

"That way, Canada would have either an A or a B tournament every second year."

A league of teams from the four countries is desirable but too expensive, Jukes said. He did not predict when such international tournaments might be established permanently.

"Canada would be helped by such a rotating system because it's almost impossible for our national team to get good competition."

"Our national team is too good for Canadian club teams and no pre-season except New York Rangers of the National League will play us so we have to schedule games with reinforced or all-star teams."

Glen Galloway sparks polar-swim day with bathtub cruise demonstration

Polar Winner Passes Hour

NANAIMO—Streets were packed for three blocks from shore Monday by cars carrying the throngs who came to see the annual polar bear swim.

Swimmers collecting a dollar for their troubles from Frank Ney, sponsor of the event, numbered 347.

Ice supplied by Pete Maffeo floated among them, lowering the already cold, 38-degree temperature.

The youngest to enter, to ankle level, was Linda Coulter, 3. The youngest to dunk was Gay Fisher, 5, and Reid Thorburn, 8, was the youngest to actually swim — five strokes.

PROMINENT SIGN

George White, 65, the eldest bather, strode about in an old fashioned suit with "B.C. Centennial" across the chest and rear.

Winner Ian Taylor, 14, hardly able to stand and walking with help only, arrived at the stand for his dollar after being in the water for 63½ minutes.

He was massaged, filled with hot coffee and wrapped in woolen blankets by St. John Ambulance people in an attempt to bring him back to normal.

HOSPITAL TREATMENT

After about a half-hour attempt, they took him to Nanaimo General Hospital, where he received treatment and was released.

Only a half minute behind him was Gail Vogan, 12, who responded to the ministrations of St. John members.

Mr. Ney was worried about the welfare of those who had stayed in the water too long.

"We don't want them to stay in too long — I started calling them in after only 20 minutes," he said.

He said he is definitely against endurance dunking, and said there is no special recognition for it.

Swimmers were given the raspberries — home-grown ones — by Bob Kelly and Norm Oliver.

A Departure Bay-grown lemon almost half the size of a grapefruit was supplied by Tom Garner, and Mega McDougall added local, fresh-cut flowers.

Mr. Ney and members of Nanaimo Reelky strode the platform in fancy and-or ridiculous costumes, adding to the fun.

WARM COATS

Miss Nanaimo, Lee Ann Belkhi, with her two princesses, were also on hand to greet the shivering swimmers, but they were dressed to the neck in warm coats.

Christine Smith, dressed in a hula — over a skirt — hula danced to music by guitarist Ken Gogo.

After all the swimmers were presented with their dollars, and all the bananas on hand had been thrown to spectators, a short cricket match followed.

Soon after, the crowd dispersed, driving home along roads bordered with hoar frost.

How was the day?

"The water's not too bad, but it's (the gravel along the shore) cold on my feet," said young Bonnie Brown of Qualicum.

North Galiano Powerful at Last As Success Caps Area Effort

GALIANO ISLAND — Electricity finally came on the day before Christmas Eve to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graham, both in their mid-80s and married 64 years, the only residents of Retreat Cove on Galiano Island — once a thriving little community.

Mr. Graham had given a hundred cedar trees from his property for the local volunteer group to cut, peel and make into power poles for the community project completed after almost two years of work.

Farther up the island, Albert

Karr, 65, who headed the crew of school boys who prepared the poles early this spring, left every light in his house blazing all night "just for the hell of it."

John Larson, 87, who helped to burn brush along the line and paid off his money share at the rate of $5 a month, got out his Honda determined to drive down the muddy island road to "see the lights."

President of the Galiano

Chamber of Commerce, editor of The Gulf Islander and the one who carried the greatest load of responsibility for the project since April of 1965, Miss Lockwood said she was tired but "very happy we stuck with the job and saw it through."

Hydro and B.C. Telephone crews will return after the New Year—but only to tie in some of the feeder lines.

After the First World War, North Galiano was among the most prosperous Gulf Island communities, with sawmill, canneries, a ship repair yard and many farms.

When the last cannery closed about 20 years ago, the population was a dozen families who held on because they had been born there—loggers, fishermen, the lighthouse keeper and a few Indian families on the reserve at Portler Pass.

South Galiano had developed into a permanent village, but in between was a MacMillan and Bloedel tree farm, 15 miles of solid forest. South Galiano's own light and power company became government-owned; the north went powerless.

B.C. Hydro declined to act because of an estimated $85,000 cost for the linkup. Then, almost two years ago, Al Van Sackler, Hydro's Duncan district manager, explained to a group of North Galiano residents the rural electrification assistance program.

This included cost shares by Hydro, the government and the local people — 20 families when all the Indians were home from fishing.

The people organized a committee of nine men and one woman in April of 1965 with W. D. Beach as chairman and Miss Lockwood as secretary-treasurer and business manager — both former B.C. Electric employees.

The planning and organizing took almost a year. Contributions from property owners north of Montague, some of whom had no homes in the area as yet,

Hydro would not give the green light for clearing, due to the lack of potential customers, until the big snow last January wrecked the phone line to the area. The committee persuaded B.C. Tel to join the project and cut the cost.

B.C. Tel's share was digging the hundreds of holes — a $10,000 job.

Hydro then agreed, and the residents began clearing the right of way. Penelakut Indians helped to fell trees and burn brush through their reserve so their homes and lighthouses on the twin points could be served.

A dozen men contributed 125 department) costs about $1,200 to run without doing anything to bring it up to B.C. specifications. We need $2,200 just for hose."

The society has outlined a five-year budget for $4,514 which includes operating costs, workmen's compensation, maintenance, new equipment and a reserve fund for a new truck.

NO STRETCHER

Mr. Price said the men lack proper fighting equipment and don't even have a stretcher or protective clothing.

Three Cars Crash, No One Hurt

DUNCAN — No one was injured in a three-car rear-end crash near the Cowichan golf course on Trans-Canada Highway in the earliest minutes of Christmas Day.

Drivers of the cars were identified as Sidney William Muirhead of Nanaimo, Gerald Robert Naser of Victoria and Mabel M. Portelance of Chemainus.

Estimated damage to the cars was $1,000.

"They don't feel like going out on a volunteer basis if they don't have the proper clothing," he said.

"The firemen cannot be expected to work for the whole community. For $10 a year I cannot see what people are complaining about."

FOURTEEN CANNOT

He said the 14 regular volunteer firemen have been working hard in practising the last few years, and didn't want to see it dropped because of lack of equipment.

"Fourteen men cannot support it," said Mr. Price. "It will still be all volunteer work, regardless."

The proposed district will cover a three-mile radius and will include part of Cherry Point, Cobble Hill and Cowichan Station in addition to Cowichan Bay.

TIME GIVEN

It would take about 10 minutes for the fire truck and men to reach the farthest point of the district.

The truck carries 250 gallons of its own water and another 1,000 gallons of water is available from a tanker truck.

The society has sent all 400 property owners written notices of its intentions and so far fewer than 10 per cent have objected.

The train will be in Nanaimo Jan. 17 to 19.

Early in January the "Best of Barkerville" troupe will reprise its tour of B.C. The show recalls the roaring days of B.C.'s early gold camps.

It will appear in Campbell River Jan. 13 and 14, Courtenay Jan. 16 and 17, Parksville Jan. 18, Ucluelet Jan. 19, the Albermarls Jan. 20, Nanaimo Jan. 23 and 24, Ladysmith Jan. 25, Salt Spring Island Jan. 26, Duncan Jan. 27, Sooke Jan. 28, Langford Jan. 30 and Sidney Jan. 31.

Ho, Ho, Ho? No, No, No!

DUNCAN—Parking meters don't care about Christmas, a young woman found out during the last shopping hours Christmas Eve.

She had left her car downtown and put money into the parking meter slot.

Whistling and hip-swinging, she went off.

Sometime later the young woman returned, still happy and pleased with herself. She just deposited her parcels in the car.

An older woman in a car in front watched via a rear view mirror.

The girl again gaily hurried off.

Once more she returned, and once more she put parcels into the car.

Again she departed happy and cheerful.

The woman in the car in front watched for the girl to return, but the parking meter commissionaire arrived at the scene instead and left a ticket on the girl's car.

Shortly after the young woman approached her car humming happily. She smiled until she unfolded the meter ticket, then her face dropped.

In disbelief she looked at the ticket and exclaimed, "Damn, damn, damn," and turning to the parking meter she hit it with her fist, calling out, "damn you."

Indignant, she finally climbed aboard her car and drove off.

Experts Examine Island Relics

Relics of the Spaniards' stay at Friendly Cove — plus clues to older inhabitants — are being examined in Ottawa by archaeologists of the Canadian Historic Sites Division.

Etched glass, pottery shards and fragments of an olive jar were among the finds on tiny San Miguel Island off Friendly Cove, which is on Nootka Island, 165 miles northwest of Victoria.

Discovered in 1774, by Juan Perez, a California Spaniard, the spot was occupied by English fur traders in 1788 and seized by the Spaniards the following year.

Spain maintained a garrison at Friendly Cove until 1795, when the fort was dismantled after the northwest coast was ceded to Great Britain.

Visible evidence of the fort has long since been obliterated.

While excavating the site, the archaeologists also recovered bone and stone implements used for fishing and hunting.

They recorded one Indian song describing the Spanish occupation.

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, said Tuesday he hopes some of the relics will be turned over to the Provincial Museum.

Paratroopers

Assault Starts In Delta

SAIGON (UPI) — Hundreds of Vietnamese paratroopers, jumping into battle with their American advisers, launched the most massive airborne assault of the war deep in the Mekong delta, a government spokesman announced Wednesday.

The operation may be a prelude to American troops moving into the rice-rich delta region in force for the first time, informed observers said.

Announcement of the airborne assault came after Communist troops, attacking into point-blank 105 MM artillery fire Tuesday, overran and inflicted "heavy" casualties on a U.S. artillery unit in the first such action of the war. The outnumbered defenders drove the Communists back in savage hand-to-hand fighting in a northern coastal area.

In the airborne assault, a multi-battalion force of paratroopers floated down on the fringe of a forest sanctuary of hard-core main force Viet Cong troops, about 170 miles southwest of Saigon. At the same time, Vietnamese Rangers and regular troops made helicopter assaults into rice paddy landing zones.

The operation began early Tuesday morning but was not announced until Wednesday for security reasons.

FIRE FIGHTS

The airborne units ran into immediate fire fights with Viet Cong forces in a number of skirmishes. A spokesman said 29 Viet Cong were killed, four captured and six suspects detained for questioning.

In the fighting in the north, the Communist force was estimated at 1,200 men. Intelligence sources said it was one of several major units reinforced, supplied and positioned for an offensive during the 48-hour Christmas truce.

TONS OF BOMBS

UPI correspondent Alvin Webb was aboard one of the 33 transport planes that flew 1,300 Vietnamese paratroopers into the Mekong Delta battle. He reported that U.S. B-57 Canberras, F-4 Crusaders and F-100 Super Sabres hammered the area with hundreds of tons of bombs and flaming napalm to soften it up before the paratroopers swarmed out of the planes.

So far, there has been no firm word from American officials about U.S. troops moving a fighting force into the delta for the first time. But it has been expected for months and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky said recently that Americans would be in the delta around the first of the year.

MASSIVE ASSAULT

There was speculation that the massive assault on the fringe of the U Minh forest, which has been a Viet Cong stronghold for many years may be the beginning to such an American move.

In other action reported Wednesday air force fighter-bombers hammered three North Vietnamese concentrations and storage facilities in the demilitarized zone and two more just north of the zone where intelligence reports indicated the Communists had moved en masse during the Christmas cease-fire.

BAD WEATHER

Bad weather limited American strike and armed reconnaissance missions over most of the rest of North Vietnam Tuesday, the military spokesman reported. There was no significant ground action reported over the rest of the country Wednesday.

China Denies Steel Deal

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China has officially denied reports it had sold steel to the U.S. for military construction in Vietnam as "out-and-out lie and slander" instigated by the Soviet Union.

The London Observer had reported from Singapore that the U.S. bought more than $1,000,000 worth of steel — several thousand tons — through intermediaries in Hong Kong.

Six in Ricochet Car Booked as Drunks

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Highway Patrolman F. B. Harper watched in horror Monday night as a car, its driver unconscious, careened down an incline on the 190-foot high Cooper River bridge.

The car wobbled from side to side of the two-mile-long bridge, banging into supports on either side. As it reached the end of the span, slowed by repeated sideswipes, Harper leaped into the car and stopped it.

Harper found not only the driver unconscious, but three other men and two women—all out cold. All six were booked on drunk charges.

Ubysey Wins Honors

MONTREAL (CP) — The Southern trophy, top award given to campus newspapers by the Canadian University Press, went Tuesday night to the University of British Columbia's Ubysey for "general excellence."

Second and third prizes in the Ubysey's category—papers that appear more than once weekly—went to the Gateway of the University of Alberta and to The Varsity at the University of Toronto.

The Victoria Press Trophy, for the best entertainment supplement to a university paper, was awarded to the Gateway and to the Sheaf of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon.

Two-Car Crash Hurts Two

NANAIMO—A Christmas Day accident here sent two people to hospital.

At 5:50 p.m., a head-on collision at Cornox and Wall streets sent the driver of one car, Ronald Leslie Thompson, 26, of 1535 White, to hospital.

He was released the same day. Sandra White, 624 Centre, is reported in satisfactory condition. She was a passenger in the second car, driven by William Tweet, 23, Barnes Road.

Race by Ambulance To Victoria Lost as Girl Dies

NANAIMO — An 80-mile-an-hour race to Victoria was lost Christmas Eve.

Island Ambulance tried in vain to save the life of Leona Seymour, 8, by racing her to hospital in Victoria, and the services of a brain specialist.

LADYSMITH EARLIER She had been brought to Lady-smith General Hospital earlier, suffering from what might have been tonsillitis.

This diagnosis was discarded when she lost consciousness there. She was then taken to Nanaimo for treatment.

Symptoms at the time indicated either possibilities of tumor or hemorrhage.

SPECIAL CARE

When Nanaimo Regional General Hospital staff members determined that special care for a possible virus infection of encephalitis was needed, the child was put back in an ambulance and sped along the highway to Victoria.

A nurse was on hand during the race, which reached speeds of 80, while attempting all the while to keep the child breathing.

But Leona died.

Gun Found By Side Of Dead Man

NANAIMO—A possible suicide was found late Monday afternoon.

Dan Sinclair, Porte Road, Saltspring, was found dead, with an old model gun by his side. No foul play was suspected, as a note was found by the body.

Sinclair would have been 77 Jan. 2.

He was alone in his house, his housekeeper having been visiting in Duncan.

Thieves Take Nativity Scene

TORONTO (CP) — Thieves stole the nativity scene from outside St. Joan of Arc Roman Catholic church in Toronto's west end Monday. Police said models missing include 20-inch statues of Mary, Joseph and Jesus, an ox and a donkey valued at more than $100.

No Publication Till April

Jackie Won't Push Stop-Book Order

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and publishers Harper and Row announced Tuesday night the former first lady has decided not to press her motion for a temporary injunction to prevent publication of the book The Death of a President.

The statement said Harper and Row still intend to publish the book, but have agreed not to do so until April 1 although no court order has been obtained forbidding prior publication.

It added that, if no agreement is reached in advance, both parties have agreed to request a trial of the issue in mid-January.

The statement was issued shortly after it was learned that Harper and Row had demanded — and got — a court hearing on the case Thursday.

Mrs. Kennedy's separate action against the book's author, William Manchester, was put off until Jan. 15 because he is ill with pneumonia.

The joint statement said representatives of both parties "have been making steady progress toward an amicable settlement."

"The unfortunate illness of the author has made it necessary to continue these discussions over a longer period than was anticipated."

A source close to the Kennedys said: "I think they're close to an agreement."

Overtime Ban Hits Dams

Pay packets in many B.C. industries, particularly construction, will be slimmer in 1967. Provincial government regulations restricting overtime go into effect next weekend.

Assistant deputy minister of labor Clifford Margison confirmed Tuesday that notices had been posted at a number of job sites in the province, setting out hours of work.

The regulations outlined in September by Premier Bennett restrict work time to 44 hours a week.

Chinese Purge to Sweep Economy

Great Leap to Civil War?

By ROBERT ELEGANT
HONG KONG (LAT) — Previous restraints on the scope and virulence of China's great purge were ordered removed Tuesday — and nearly total turmoil was proclaimed.

The Chinese economy, previously out of bounds to the power struggle, is to become a major battlefield. The ramifications of this new provocation are so sweeping it is almost certain to result in widespread violence among working men, and could well be the forerunner of open civil war. (See Page 37.)

China's mines and factories, hitherto virtually exempt from the sweeping purges, now are to be swept by "serious struggle." The Red Guards, who had been instructed not to interfere with labor, now will invade factories.

The Peking People's Daily, the organ of the central committee of the Communist party and the platform of Defence Minister Lin Biao's extremist group, proclaimed factories and mines would now be besieged by the "revolutionary students" of the Red Guard and their management would be totally reorganized.

Loffmark Looks Ahead

B.C. BOOM SLOWING

By JACK FRY

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark anticipates a slowdown next year in B.C.'s mushrooming economic boom which began in 1961.

His prediction that the edge will be worn off the boom was contained in an 88-page summary of 1966 economic activity released today. (See also Page 39.)

The report stated that the 1967 "over-all rate of increase might be of a lower order than that experienced this year."

The boom which "has prevailed without abatement since 1961" was kept alive another year largely through the efforts of the provincial government.

Setbacks to the provincial economy were brought about by tight money conditions which restricted new housing starts here and in the United States and forced curbs on production of lumber, shingles and plywood.

But overseas markets were still buoyant for many of B.C.'s export commodities, and the government played a major role in bringing about an expanded productive capacity and a record-breaking level of capital investment.

The net result was that "most of the major indicators of economic activity in 1966 experienced substantial gains over the record levels achieved last year."

Average weekly wages rose by 7.7 per cent but this gain was moderated by price increases averaging 3.7 per cent during

No Rejoicing For Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Yves Gabias, Quebec provincial secretary, said Tuesday night the province will not rejoice over the 100th anniversary of Confederation but nevertheless has no intention to boycott celebrations planned for ushering in the 1967 centennial year.

Mr. Gabias said: "There is no room for rejoicing about Confederation's 100th anniversary but we plan to participate in all programs that allow us, as Quebecers, to display ourselves."

"It is not a question of participating in the parading of bells and torches. Quebec will not participate in the rejoicings."

"We do not plan to boycott the feasts and rejoicings which will take place on the occasion of the start of the centennial year."

Mr. Gabias said Quebec will take part in such centennial programs as those involving artistic performances and sports.

Such events he included among those which "will allow Quebecers to show themselves as Quebecers."

Unavailable for further comment was Simon-Pierre Rainville, centennial director in the provincial secretary's office.

Friday, Mr. Rainville said: "French-Canadians will mark the centenary by participating in all the programs, but whether it is New Year's Day or July 1 the province does not wish to rejoice."

Train, Oil Truck

Fiery Crash Kills Eleven

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — A self-propelled train with about 28 persons aboard collided with an oil truck in a fiery explosion at a street crossing about midnight Tuesday night and at least 11 persons were killed.

Many of the victims were trapped in the train as flames almost immediately broke out and the doors jammed.

Police said the train apparently stopped at the crossing on Second Street and was pushed off the tracks when the truck hit it. The truck ruptured, and its contents spilled out in a fiery wave of flames.

The train was reported en route from Boston's North Station to Rockport, Mass.

Everett is an industrial community that lies on the outskirts of Boston.

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston said it had received nine dead from burns and three injured. Whidden Hospital here said it had received two dead and 10 others "in pretty rough" shape.

Three other injured were taken to Chelsea Naval Hospital and one was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Trawler Takes Secret Below

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — The big British stern trawler St. Finbar sank late Tuesday only 35 miles from St. Anthony, Nfld., and carried the secret of 11 missing crew members with her to the bottom.

Meanwhile, a second British trawler, the Arsino, which had been towing the St. Finbar stern first through the teeth of a 30-knot gale, headed for the Newfoundland capital with 13 survivors and the body of a 14th member of the sunken vessel's 25-man crew.

The Arsino was reported to be making between 20 and 28 knots through freezing rain and snow on the 400 mile trip here. The agents for the two vessels, Bowring Bros. of St. John's, estimated she would arrive late today.

The 11 crew members who have been missing since fire broke out on the 1,139-ton St. Finbar early Christmas morning are presumed dead. The agents earlier had said some of the men might still be alive, trapped beneath the decks of the 210-foot ship.

It was not known if the Arsino had been able to put men aboard the stricken trawler to check.

Military Fears New Hobbles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fresh round of controversy shaped up over the Vietnamese war Tuesday with the U.S. defence department's acknowledgement that civilian areas of North Vietnam have been damaged by air attacks.

There was concern among the military that continuing criticism, and the U.S. administration's seeming inability to deal with it, might force new restrictions on what American pilots can do in North Vietnam.

Latest pressures for an official explanation of the scope of

North Vietnamese civilian casualties came with a New York Times dispatch describing death and desolation in residential areas near Hanoi.

Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of The Times, reported "block after block of utter desolation" in the city of Nam Dinh, 50 miles southeast of Hanoi, and 40 persons killed in October raids at Phu Ly, 35 miles south of the Communist capital.

Salisbury, visiting North Vietnam, said some small villages

Undetected, Says Engineering Teacher:

Soviet Super Plane Eyed U.S.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — A new, nuclear-powered Soviet bomber may have made three flights over U.S. territory in 1964 without being detected by American radar defenses, a Lehigh University professor reports in a recently published book.

During these alleged flights over San Francisco, New York City and Hawaii—the bomber carried a payload equivalent to a 30-megaton hydrogen bomb and a "phantom instrument box" to ward off radar detection, the book says.

In Washington, the defence department said it has "no knowledge of any such penetration nor of any such aircraft." Spokesmen added privately that the story "just doesn't make sense."

The 224-page book, which speculates on these possibilities, is entitled Secret Electronic Espionage and was written by John Carroll, an industrial engineering teacher at Lehigh.

Carroll attributes his information to an expatriated Korean in California, who supposedly is privy to the details to a meeting of China's ministry of defence in Peking June 15, 1964.

"The meeting allegedly took place . . . when military attaches from the North Korean embassy joined staff members of the Red Chinese ministry of defence to witness a briefing conducted by four officers from the Soviet ministry of defence," writes Carroll.

"The Soviet officers disclosed that during the first week of February, 1964, a new Russian bomber had flown over three strategically important areas of the U.S. without being detected by U.S. radar defenses."

"The areas were San Francisco - Oakland, Calif., New York City and the state of New Jersey, and the Hawaiian Islands. The Soviet officers displayed recently taken aerial photographs of specific military objectives to prove that the planes had accomplished their mission of penetration."

"This plane was, they explained, a nuclear-powered bomber with average speeds of 2,500 miles an hour and a top speed of 3,500 miles an hour."

"It had a ceiling of 85,000 feet and the capability of remaining aloft without refueling" for as many as 21 days.

hydro projects are included in the restrictions.

Any employers who face emergency situations will have to apply to the Board of Industrial Relations for special permits to exceed the 44-hour work week.

The Hours of Work Act does include provisions for special emergency repairs to machinery or other situations which require immediate attention.

Almost all permits issued to such major industries as mining, manufacturing, construction and transportation are due to expire at the end of this week.

No permits will be issued for overtime work in the future unless a definite emergency situation arises.

The extra work ban was placed on B.C. industries by Premier Bennett in an effort to stem the rising tide of unemployment.

Tribesmen Kill Five In Battling Police

MASERU, Lesotho (UPI) — Armed tribesmen shooting war chants clashed Tuesday with police in this African enclave which won independence from Britain less than three months ago. First reports said five persons were killed.
